Japanese Hurl 100,000 Troops Against Chuhsien

Launch Fierce New Attacks in Drive To Take
Walled City

Invaders Lose 10,000 Men in Two Days of Hard Fighting

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, June 5 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced tonight that the Japanese had hurled 100,000 troops in fierce new onslaughts against the walled defenses of Chuhsien, but the western Chekiang province rail town still held out as a barrier to a broadened scheme of Japanese conquest.

Attacks in two days of intensive fighting on three sides of the town were reported officially to have cost the Japanese 10,000 casualties.

Underlining the importance of the defense stand there, high Chinese quarters said the eastern seaboard province had been marked by the Imperial command at Tokyo for the first blows of an intended knockout of all southern China that would open overland communications with French Indo-China, Thailand and Burma.

Japan Short of Ships

These sources said that Japan, concerned over a shipping shortage and the possibility that the Allies eventually might threaten seriously the coastwise shipping lanes, hoped to smash on from Chekiang across Kiangsi, Hunan and Kwangsi provinces for rail and road connections with Indo-China.

Fighting already has intensified during the past week in Kiangsi province just west of Chekiang, where the Japanese have a wedge from the north, and in Kwangtung province where a wedge is being driven up from the Canton area to the south.

The high command's announcement that the Japanese suffered 8,000 casualties yesterday alone in dawn-to-dusk assaults on Chuhsien was taken by some observers as an indication that the tide of fighting might be turning against the invaders in this key salient.

"This morning, with the arrival of more reinforcements, the Japanese renewed their onslaughts, and most sanguinary fighting is now in progress," a communique reported.

Japanese Forced Back

It said the Japanese, despite support of their field guns and bombers, were held off by point-blank Chinese artillery fire and rolled back in fierce hand-to-hand conflict in the sectors north and south of the city.

Another spirited battle was reported underway in Kiangsi province south of Nanchang, one of the Japanese-held terminals of the

Conferees Agree On $46 a Month Army Base Pay

But House Will Continue
Fight To Make It $50
as Voted

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—A Senate-House conference committee today agreed unanimously on a compromise increase to $46 a month in the base pay of buck privates and apprentice seamen, but legislators said the fight for a higher rate was far from over.

The Senate had voted a minimum pay of $42 and the House $50. The present pay is $21 for the first four months, then it goes to $30.

First class privates and corresponding naval ratings under the compromise would receive $32 a month compared with the Senate-approved rate of $48 and a House-approved $54.

The conference agreement, reached after two unratified meetings during the day, will come up first in the Senate on Monday. Senator Johnson (D-Colo.), co-author of the legislation, predicted Senate adoption of the compromise. But Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis.), an advocate of $50, said he would fight to defeat it.

If rejected, it probably would be returned to conference with instructions to accept the House rate of $50. The House approved the latter figure in passing the bill in the first place. It did so by almost a 10 to 1 vote again in rejecting a conference report proposing $42.

The conferees not only compromised on $46 today, but agreed to make the increase operative as of June 1 last. The original bill provided that the increase should become effective in the first calendar month after the legislation was enacted.

Red Air Force Attacks German Troops in North

Destruction of at Least 40
Nazi Aircraft
Reported

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
MOSCOW, June 5 (AP)—The Red air force was declared tonight to be pounding in Germany's Arctic air-dromes in a major counter-attack on the Nazi air fleet which is trying to cut the supply line from Russia's western allies.

Destruction of at least forty German aircraft was claimed in the initial stages of the assault.

(Norwegian sources in London said they had learned that the RAF, in raids on Trondheim April 29 and 30, had scored direct hits on the German super battleship Tirpitz and the heavy cruiser Admiral Hipper, which for weeks have been considered a grave menace to the Arctic supply route.)

(Although these great warships have been holed up in Trondheim, Anglo-American convoys sailing the frigid route to Murmansk have been continually attacked by German dive bombers, torpedo planes and other aircraft from Nazi Norwegian bases, as well as by U-boats and destroyers.)

Attack Nazi Airports
Russian dispatches from Murmansk said planes of the northern Red air fleet had conducted two assaults on German airports deep in Nazi-occupied territory.

In one attack, twelve German planes were wrecked; in the second, the Red fliers destroyed twenty-five aircraft which the Germans just had brought north.

At another air base a fuel depot and repair shops were reported blown up and three more airplanes destroyed.

Other Russian warplanes fought duels with German aircraft trying to raid Murmansk itself, and in one of these a Soviet fighter was said to have blown up a Junkers with its entire bomb load. The explosion was so great, the dispatches said, that a second Junkers following the first crashed with its crew in Kola gulch.

On the battlefield, action was mounting from the Kalinin sector northwest of Moscow to Leningrad, and the Red army reported it was ejecting the Germans from favorable positions and improving its own lines.

Germans Using More Men
With wide expanses of the terrain now open for maneuver, the Germans were throwing more and more men, tanks and planes into local encounters—but the Russians, too, were getting strong forces into the field.

The Russians were strengthening their lines at Leningrad, too. A sniper battalion, in a low-lying position facing a superior enemy location, was reported to have forced the Germans to abandon their line.

On this front Germany's foreign legions appeared to be in the most

100 Congressmen Demand Facts on Rationing of Gas

Oppose Plan if Facts Are Not Provided To Prove Necessity

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt and his ranking aides dug into the twin problems of rubber and gasoline today, while a hundred House members at a boisterous meeting asserted their opposition to gasoline rationing unless shown "facts" to prove its necessity.

No decisions were reached at the White House session, its participants said as they left, but one of them, Archibald MacLeish, director of the Office of Facts and Figures, intimated that Mr. Roosevelt would issue a statement in a few days.

The hundred congressmen adopted a resolution opposing nationwide rationing after hearing speeches criticizing the government for "bureaucratic methods" and "dictatorial policies," and objecting to the rationing methods used by Leon Henderson, price control administrator.

Will Name Committee
The resolution was proposed by Reps. Rankin (D-Miss.) and Gossett (D-Tex.) and was accepted after revision to include a statement that the meeting favored any necessary war sacrifices. Rep. Kleberg (D-Tex.) was authorized to appoint a five-man committee to "determine what steps are necessary."

Meantime, there were other capital developments bearing on the situation. Chairman Somers (D-N.Y.) asserted in a statement that the House Coinage committee had received "shocking revelations" indicating the "big four" rubber companies had gained control of the rubber program and were impeding the war effort. His committee he added, would investigate the situation. He did not name the "big four."

Rep. Johnson (D-Okla.) introduced a resolution to direct that the Office of Price Administration, before extending gasoline rationing, file information with the House showing the necessity for such a step.

Wheeler Scores War Board
At a Senate committee hearing, Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.) charged the War Production Board had been "absolutely derelict" in its duty to plan for alcohol production. The Senate group, an agriculture subcommittee, is investigating the question of making rubber from farm products by an alcohol process.

Earlier Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, said in a letter to Rep. White (D-Iowa) that there was no hope that rubber would become available for making tires for civilian owned cars for several years and called gasoline rationing the "most practicable way to conserve rubber."

Those who attended the president's conference included, in addition to Henderson, Eastman and MacLeish:

Issues at Conference
Secretary of Commerce Jones, Interior Secretary Ickes, the petroleum co-ordinator; Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production Board; Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Budget Director Harold Smith; Wayne Cox, executive director of the Office of Emergency Management; and Arthur Newhall, the rubber co-ordinator.

At his press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said he was not yet in a position to clarify the gasoline situation. Asked about a House vote earlier this week against the installation of a pipe line and barge canal across northern Florida to alleviate the eastern gasoline shortage, Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know enough about that to comment.

He added he did not believe he had specifically recommended the

THIS GERMAN CITY MAY BE NEXT AIR RAID TARGET

Leipzig, German industrial city and a railroad center, may be next in the British plan to bomb Germany "city by city" as Prime Minister Winston Churchill put it. The British are now able to send more than 1,000 planes across the channel every night the weather permits and within a short time it is expected American planes will more than double the bombardment fleet.

CCC Denied Funds To Keep Up Work During the War

House Votes 158 to 121
against Appropriation of $75,818,000

By ALEX H. SINGLETON

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Born of the depression nine years ago, the civilian conservation corps was denied to carry on its work today as the House withstood strong administration pressure for wartime continuance of the organization on a semi-military basis.

The House voted, by tellers' count of 158 to 121, against a motion which would have added a $75,818,000 allotment for the CCC to a $1,058,451,660 supply bill for several agencies, including the labor department and Social Security board.

Late in the day the House passed the $1,058,451,660 bill and sent it to the Senate after rejecting by a voice vote Rep. Taber's (R-N.Y.) motion to send the measure back to committee.

Total Cost $3,000,000,000
If upheld by the Senate, the vote on the CCC fund—would write funds—probably for at least the duration of the war—to the triple "C", which since its creation in 1933 has cost about $3,000,000,000.

The vote came after House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass.), in a desperate attempt to turn the tide of opposition, declared that the vote would be "a test today as to whether there is going to be politics in war measures."

The Republican minority voted almost solidly against the CCC allocation, along with more than a score from the Democratic side who contended that the corps had no place in a war-time economy.

RAF PLANES BATTER 400 MILE SECTION OF NAZI-HELD COAST

LONDON, June 5 (AP)—RAF fighters swept over nearly 400 miles of the German-held continental coast this afternoon in what the war ministry announced was one of the biggest simultaneous offensives by these swift craft in all the war.

These vast operations ranged along the entire French channel coast from Belgium to Brittany and followed morning bombing attacks upon the Calais and Dunkerque area.

Four separate sorties were made, three in which American-made Boston bombers attacked targets at Ostend and Le Havre and airbases at Morlaix and Lannion, bases 100 miles across the channel from which German convoy raiders operate.

100 Spitfires Attack
The other attack was of a diversionary nature and was made by more than 100 Spitfires thrusting inland to Abbeville.

Morlaix and Lannion were attacked in a single operation against

Japanese Meet Hot Reception, Nimitz Reports

Heavy Toll Taken of Attacking Planes and Warships

Enemy Carriers, Battleships and Cruisers Believed in Action

HONOLULU, June 5 (AP)—A great air and naval battle, possibly with the possession of Midway Island at stake, presumably was in progress today off the low-lying outpost northwest of Hawaii, following an attempt in force by the Japanese yesterday to raid the strongly fortified base.

The enemy ran into a hot reception, said a communique by Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and suffered direct hits on at least one battleship, an airplane carrier and possibly other warships. In addition, the defense forces took a heavy toll of attacking warplanes.

Midway's defenders continued the attacks on the enemy, Admiral Nimitz said, leading to comment by naval experts in Washington that the ensuing engagement may have been one of the greatest battles of the war in the Pacific so far.

Much Appears at Stake

These sources went so far as to say the outcome may determine the enemy's ability to strike again at Pearl Harbor, at Alaska, the west coast of the United States or even the Panama canal. That the enemy had in mind no mere token raid, like the five previous slashes at Midway, they pointed out, was indicated by the presence of capital ships, carriers and cruisers in the attacking force.

First official reports of the attempted raid on Midway, located some 1,150 miles northwest of the Hawaiian Islands, did not mention casualties but said damage to material installations had been small. All armed forces were represented in the action, it was announced, indicating the garrison of tough marines was supported by naval units and air forces.

British Merchant Vessel Destroyed

A SOUTHERN U. S. PORT, June 5 (AP)—The crew of a small British merchant vessel sunk off the Atlantic coast by two enemy submarines firing simultaneously worked fourteen hours in shark-infested waters to repair a shrapnel-riddled lifeboat.

The navy announced the sinking of the vessel today.

One crewman stood guard with a paddle to beat off the sharks while his companions worked in waist-deep water and then sixteen of the crew of forty-five volunteered to leave the one good but overcrowded lifeboat for the damaged craft.

After four nights and three days, the sixteen men were picked up by a British freighter and brought into port.

The two U-boats appeared without warning out of the darkness on each side of the vessel and began their shelling. Approximately sixty shells struck their target but not a man was injured.

United Nations Reinforce India With Men, Guns

Great Convoy of Equipment and Soldiers
Reaches Sub-Continent

By PRESTON GROVER

NEW DELHI, INDIA, June 6 (AP)—The United Nations have reinforced India with the greatest convoy of modern equipment and fighting men ever to reach that sub-continent, it was officially announced today, at a time when Japan's troops seemed moving with determination within forty-five miles of the Indo-Urman border.

British officials, lifting for a moment the curtain of military secrecy which has enveloped the defense of India since the failure of the British Independence plan and the loss of Burma, disclosed the convoy had reached India a month ago without the loss of ship or life.

It was unloaded at several East India ports, because it was too large for the facilities of any one harbor. Possibly, officials hinted, it was the largest convoy ever to leave Great Britain.

U. S. and British light and heavy tanks, anti-aircraft weapons of various caliber, and a large number of both fighting and technical personnel came in the ships.

Included were some Indians trained in Britain and other troops with battle experience in both France and Libya. Crews for U. S. Kitty-

CIO Pledges Aid To Harry Bridges, Offers Tax Plan

Executive Board Will Fight
Deportation Order of
Attorney General

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The CIO executive board today pledged a fight in behalf of Harry Bridges, Pacific coast longshoreman's leader, and declared the deportation order of Attorney General Biddle was based "neither on the facts nor on common sense."

The board, winding up a three day meeting, also expressed its desire for perfecting unity with the AFL, urged closer cooperation with organized workers of all the United Nations, and laid down a taxation program with the assertion that the House Ways and Means committee had "failed miserably."

Sees Blow To Unity
A resolution declared the order to deport Bridges on the ground that he was a Communist was "a blow not only to all concepts of American justice but even more a blow to national unity and morale necessary to victory." It said "the attorney general chose to rely on hearsay evidence xxx."

The board said Bridges and the union he represents were "giving the nation and our allies the utmost in service for rapid and efficient shipment of war materials to the fighting fronts throughout the world."

Want Peace with AFL

The CIO board expressed a "sincere desire" for unity with the AFL but made plain that as long as functional unity prevailed, organic unity must be considered secondary to the winning of the war. In an apparent retort to the demand of John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers for the immediate opening of unity negotiations, the board said it

53 Dead or Missing in Explosion In Illinois Shell Loading Plant

JOLIET, Ill., June 5 (AP)—An explosion inside the Elwood Ordnance shell loading plant left fifty-three men dead or missing today, but it halted production in only one of twelve units inside the plant, one of the biggest in the nation.

One building was destroyed at 2:45 a. m. (central war time) as a night crew packed cartons and loaded box cars with explosives. Army officers said there was no suspicion of sabotage.

Captain David P. Tunstall said twenty-one persons were known to be dead and thirty-six others were missing.

Only four bodies had been identified twelve hours after the blast. Others were literally blown to pieces and finger print experts were summoned to help with identification. The Ordnance department's policy of scattering buildings over an immense area—the Elwood plant covers 15,000 acres of flat prairie—helped localize to one building the explosion that was felt as far away as 100 miles.

With one ear-splitting roar and a flash of flame, the shipping building in group two was demolished. Group two consists of four major buildings, inter-connected but strung along a distance of a mile.

Army officers said the shipping plant could be replaced with less trouble than other Ordnance buildings and that group two would be back in production "very shortly."

Meantime the eleven other loading lines continued on a twenty-four-hour-a-day basis.

Lt. Col. Don M. Hoffman, Elwood's commanding officer, was expected to convene a board of inquiry. Capt. Tunstall said the cause of the blast was unknown and probably couldn't be determined before debris is cleared away, if at all.

Finland To Keep Up Independence

HELSINKI, FINLAND, June 5 (AP)—With the Finnish nation still overwhelmed with surprise at Adolf Hitler's sudden visit yesterday, a government spokesman said tonight that Finland would "continue to meet a strictly independent course."

He said Prime Minister Jukka Rangell, in his address on Field Marshal Gustav Mannerheim's seventy-fifth birthday yesterday, disclosed Finnish policy, saying "in everything touching Finnish relations with foreign states, Marshal Mannerheim has represented sovereign demands of Finnish independence to the most infinitesimal detail."

This spokesman recalled Mannerheim's declaration in 1919 when, as agent, he said "our solemn decision is never again to allow any other state to dominate us or force us into national dependency."

Marked Increase in Revocation Of Automobile Licenses Reported

BALTIMORE, June 5 (AP)—A marked increase in revocation and suspension of automobile drivers' licenses in Maryland despite a fall-off of highway travel because of tire and gasoline rationing was reported today for the first five months of 1942 by the commissioner of motor vehicles.

A total of 838 operators' licenses were revoked between Jan. 1 and May 31 compared with 737 for the same period last year. There were 1,701 suspensions for the five-month period, compared with 1,339 during that time in 1941.

Commissioner W. Lee Elgin reported, however, that a probationary system on suspensions was working favorably, and that there were "very few repeaters."

Many on Probation

Elgin said that drivers cited before the commissioner's office for hearings on suspension were in most cases placed on probation for varying periods.

"A motorist may be placed under a ninety-day suspension," Elgin explained, "and then placed on probation. He is usually careful not to violate the motor vehicles laws again."

If there is a violation during this probationary period, however, the original suspension order becomes effective.

He attributed much of the increase to new drivers, and newcomers to Maryland not entirely familiar with the laws.

Last month there were only 223 suspensions in the state, compared with 283 in May, 1941, but revocations of licenses increased from 110 in May a year ago, to 124 in May, 1942.

Wartime Control Of Food Placed In Hands of WPB

Special Committee under Wickard Will Have Charge of Supplies

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—The government assumed complete wartime control over food supplies today in a move which eventually may make far-reaching changes in the eating habits of American civilians.

Designed to assure ample supplies for the fighting forces of this country and its allies, this control was vested by the War Production Board in a nine-member food requirements committee under the chairmanship of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard.

The group has authority to say what foods may be produced or may not be produced, to determine what commodities may be imported or exported and to allocate food supplies among civilians, the armed forces, and American allies.

Others Represented

Besides the Agriculture department, the committee has representatives from the State, War and Navy departments, the Lend-Lease administration, the Board of Economic Warfare, and the WPB Divisions of Industry Operations, Materials, and Civilian Supply.

With creation of this powerful committee focusing new attention on present and prospective food supplies, Agriculture department officials emphasized that it should not be assumed that food shortages or consumer rationing of most foods are in prospect.

The total supply of food this year is expected, they reiterated, to be the largest on record and larger than total requirements, including those of Great Britain and Russia under the Lend-Lease program.

Shortages may occur, and have appeared, in some individual items, particularly sugar, canned vegetables, canned fish, pork, animal fats, vegetable oils, coffee, tea, cocoa, spices and tropical fruits.

Supplies Plentiful

Plentiful supplies of wheat, fresh fruits and vegetables, fluid milk and cream, eggs, beef, lamb and mutton are in prospect. The government is going on the assumption:

(1) That factors affecting production this year—such as weather, farm labor supplies, and the availability of transportation and food processing equipment—are not unfavorable, and (2) that the present tight shipping situation will continue to limit Lend-Lease food shipments.

A severe drought this summer or an acute shortage of farm labor might cause food production to fall below present expectations, or elimination of the submarine menace to Allied shipping might increase exports of food to Britain and Russia.

Either event, or any other development tending to reduce supplies or increase demands, might necessitate rationing of some items in which there is presently no shortage.

One of the first problems expected to be taken up by the committee in the prospect that demands for fats and vegetable oils this year will exceed production and imports. The war has cut off important foreign supplies of vegetable oils. The committee must decide whether to limit use of these raw materials or to draw upon reserve stocks.

The committee also will have much to say about details of the 1943 AAA farm program. This year's program has already been made.

Lytellton in U. S. To Speed Production

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Britain's minister of production, Sir Oliver Lytellton, said today that the objective of his visit to this country was the "integration" of British war production with that of the United States through establishment of a joint production agency.

He told reporters this after a call at the White House to discuss with President Roosevelt the production blueprint for a United Nations victory. He had conferred previously with Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chairman, and remarked that "we see very much together" on Anglo-American production problems.

Lytellton said he had taken up with Mr. Roosevelt "the war on broad lines, and more particularly the thing I've come here to fix up—the integration of British production in the general plan."

"We feel," he added, "that the war doesn't wait, and we want to relate our production not only to the future strategic plan but also to the plan for the next few months."

Recover Body of Baltimore Child

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 5 (AP)—Benjamin Lewis, Jr., two and one-half-year-old Baltimore child whose body was found early this morning on the bay side of Hooper's Island after he had been missing from the island home of his grandparents since last Saturday night, was buried this afternoon in Dorchester Memorial Park.

Delman Dean, a Hoopersville crabbler, recovered the body when it washed near the shore about three and one-half miles from the spot where the boy was last seen. Dr. Joseph K. Shriver, deputy Dorchester county medical examiner, pronounced the death due to accidental drowning.

14 Men Killed In Bomber Crash

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., June 5 (AP)—Fourteen men died in the blazing crash of a huge army bomber near Hamilton Field in the worst military plane accident in northern California history.

The big ship, carrying a crew of five civilians and nine soldiers, was swinging in a wide circle around the army air field to make an emergency landing after developing motor trouble on the take-off last night.

The plane was scarcely 500 feet in the air. It failed to clear a hillside and crashed through a grove of trees on the Herzog ranch.

Airmen at Hamilton Field, who had cleared a runway in response to the plane's urgent request, heard the bomber burst into flames immediately. A great funeral pyre flared up, fed by gasoline from the shattered tanks. It was visible for miles.

The heat was so intense would-be rescuers were unable to approach the wreckage until hours after the flames died down.

Americans Serve With Commandos In Daring Raids

Lord Mountbatten Reveals Presence of U. S. Officers in England

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Vice Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, the youthful chief of the daring Commandos, disclosed today that the Commando general staff included American army officers.

He made this disclosure in a brief talk to American newspapermen in which he told how the Commandos raided the headquarters of Field Marshal Rommel in Africa, with the intention of killing Rommel and his staff and depriving the Nazis of leadership at the moment of the last great British offensive there.

Rommel, it developed, was in Rome attending a birthday party, but the Commandos got his staff. "He had to get a new staff," Mountbatten said, "but unfortunately he was still the same Rommel."

He was sorry, he said, that so much emphasis was given to the Commandos, because it gave the impression that in England there was just one small group that was anxious to fight, and because the other services were an integral part of his organization and took part in the Commandos' raids.

"Combined operations," of which he is chief, with the honorary rank of a lieutenant general and air marshal, was "not a separate service," he said emphatically, but a combined staff. And on that staff, he added, are American officers, so that actually it is an inter-allied combined staff.

The staff members live together in one building, and so get to know each other. One small group plans each raid, without its members knowing what raid other groups might be making preparations for. This, Mountbatten said, was to keep the number "in the know" to a minimum.

Moser Asks Clemency For Four Convicts

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 5 (AP)—Clemency for four Maryland convicts was recommended to Governor O'Connor today by State Parole Director Herman M. Moser.

The parole director asked O'Connor to reduce the 30-year sentence of Franklin Moser, Baltimore, to ten years; to remit a $250 fine for Ross Scott Farney, Jr., Carroll county; to commute a life imprisonment term to eighteen years for George Sollers, Calvert county negro, convicted in 1936 of first degree murder and to commute the six months sentence of Allen Chase, negro, also of Calvert county, to enable him to return to work on his former employer's farm.

American Bombers Bag Two Planes

WASHINGTON, June 5 (AP)—Major General Lewis H. Brereton reported today that American army heavy bombers shot down at least two enemy planes in a daylight attack on the Harbor of Rangoon, Burma. One American plane failed to return.

The bombers, led by Captain Frank D. Sharp, raided enemy shipping and docks yesterday, but because of a heavy overcast it was impossible to determine the damage inflicted.

20,000 Miners Strike

LONDON, Saturday, June 6 (AP)—Nearly 20,000 miners have been forced into idleness in northern British coal fields by fresh walk-outs of haulage hands and pitboys seeking higher wages, the Daily Telegraph estimated today.

26 Czechs Executed

LONDON, June 5 (AP)—While the body of Reinhard Heydrich, the assassinated Gestapo Hangman, lay in state in the castle of Czech kings at Prague today, Nazi firing squads executed twenty-six more Czechs, making a total of 203 put to death in the Nazi counter-terror campaign now ten days old.

American Nurses And Doctors Now In New Caledonia

There To Care For American Troops, but Have Little To Do

By CLARK LEE

WITH THE U. S. ARMY IN NEW CALEDONIA (Delayed) (AP)—"When we first arrived a few weeks ago we were just babes in the woods for the first time in our lives. Now we are pretty much settled down and liking it."

Other American nurses seated outside a tent amidst a eucalyptus grove somewhere in New Caledonia agreed with the speaker, a pretty girl from Pennsylvania.

"But," one of them interjected, "I'm afraid we're not very attractive beauties. These army issue pants make us wear certainly don't add to our glamour."

Wear Army Pants

The girls are wearing regular army trousers and shirts, and even men's cotton undershirts, partly because only a portion have their own uniforms and partly for protection against mosquitoes which are the one disagreeable feature of an otherwise pleasant countryside.

This hospital unit from Philadelphia and its doctors include many of the city's foremost specialists. Few of the doctors and nurses had even been in uniform until they were sworn in last December, and most of the nurses had never spent a single night outdoors.

They set up a field hospital in a woods many miles from Noumea, which is New Caledonia's only fair sized city. They had no movies or other entertainment, except what they provided themselves. But they can swim the deep river running nearby, hunt deer and take hikes, and most of them are thoroughly enjoying outdoor life except when it rains.

Have Little To Do

Professionally they've had little to do since the health of the American forces in New Caledonia has been excellent. There has not been a single death from disease. The mosquitoes do not carry malaria and, except for some mild cases of jaundice, there has been little illness.

The nurses have learned to haul their own drinking water, bathe in the open and prepare and cook special meals from wild game. In which the countryside abounds. Ordinarily, they eat regular army rations.

As everywhere else, the first question they ask is whether the Japs are likely to come here. Most of them admit they'd rather be somewhat bored than have that happen.

As one of them said, "I've been practicing and trying but I just can't get myself to like rice. If the Japs come and it looks like we would be captured, I'm going to take to the hills and live with some friendly natives."

Fifth Registration In Maryland Is Set For Last of Month

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 5 (AP)—Governor O'Connor announced today the fifth selective service registration for Maryland youth 18 and 19 and those who would have become 20 since January 1 would be held June 30 between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

The governor said, however, Baltimore city will begin registering the men June 29 and added that the counties could do likewise if they wished.

Facilities of the schools and the services of school teachers for the registration will be used, he added. These details were worked out by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state director, and David E. Weglein, Baltimore city school superintendent.

"It is most gratifying," O'Connor declared, "that the school teachers of the state and of Baltimore city, who have given so generously of their time and services in previous registrations, again have made themselves available for this new registration of our young manhood."

"I am sure that the people of the state appreciate as fully as I the patriotic contribution that has been made by the teachers, a contribution that will be enhanced greatly by their work in connection with the coming registration of young men of 18 and 19 years and those who have become 20 since January 1."

Doolittle To Parade In Baltimore June 12

BALTIMORE, June 5 (AP)—Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led the recent bombing attack on Japan, and other war heroes are scheduled to participate in a military parade here June 12.

Others in the military group will be Lord Louis Mountbatten, commander of Great Britain's Commandos; Lieut. Col. Boyd M. Wagner, this country's first ace of the war; Lieut. John D. Bulkeley, whose torpedo boat squadron took General Douglas MacArthur from Corregidor to Australia, and Lieut. Comdr. Edward H. O'Hare, naval flying ace who shot down five Japanese bombers.

The visitors are expected to arrive at the municipal airport at 10:30 a. m., where they will be welcomed by Governor O'Connor and Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore.

The parade will begin at 3:30 p. m. at the Fifth regiment armory and end at the war memorial plaza, afternoon.

Holt a Candidate For West Va. Post

WESTON, W. Va., June 5 (AP)—Former U. S. Senator Rush D. Holt announced today that he would be a candidate in West Virginia's August primary. However, the one-time legislator did not say what office he intended to run for.

Holt would only say: "I am going to be a candidate. For what office is a secret. It is not necessary for me to toss my hat in the ring so soon because I believe that I am well enough advertised. At least, my political opponents will see to that phase."

Seven Japanese Subs Believed Sunk in a Week

Allied Fliers Get Revenge for Undersea Stabs at Supply Lines

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, June 5 (AP)—Allied fliers sank two and probably three Japanese submarines for a week total of perhaps seven in swift retribution against enemy undersea stabs at the continent's vital supply lanes, headquarters announced today.

Four midget submarines were sunk Sunday night in and around the great Sydney harbor.

The communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's operational base said of the latest successes:

"Allied aircraft of one Netherlands East Indies and two Australian squadrons on reconnaissance off the east coast located three enemy submarines on the surface in widely separated localities. In ensuing attacks, two submarines certainly were destroyed, and a third probably sunk."

The Dutch pilot of one of the planes, a big American bomber carrying six men, saw the dive and open throttle when he sighted his submarine, but his bombardier failed to get a sight on the surfaced boat. On the second pass, however, the bombs exploded squarely on the submarine's deck. The fliers next saw the bow sticking up in the air and surrounded by oil.

Observers believed that the Japanese, unable because of the rain of blows by Australian-based air power to pursue the island-to-island hops that marked their advance in other areas, and thwarted in the Coral Sea in their first effort at a sea-borne invasion, had now turned to a third phase—a submarine offensive against the supply lanes.

But at a cost of six or seven submarines, the Japanese so far had been able to sink but one old ferry boat in Sydney harbor Sunday and one allied merchant ship thirty-five miles east of Sydney last Wednesday.

Without let-up, Allied fliers continued to bomb Japanese bases along the vast northern arc from Timor to the Solomons. Fires were started and anti-aircraft installations destroyed at Koepang, Dutch Timor. A troop camp was bombed and wharves blasted at Rabaul in New Britain. A seaplane was machine-gunned at Tulagi in the Solomons.

Japanese Meel

When the enemy struck shortly after dawn yesterday he found an island alert and ready. Forewarned by the earlier attacks on Dutch Harbor, Alaska, and inspired by the historic defense of Wake Island, the defense forces repaid savagely. Five times previously they had beaten back enemy attempts to take the island, the last previous one in March.

Admiral Nimitz himself was on the island only last month, to decorate four naval and marine officers for heroism in previous raids. He commended them the ground and air defenses under command of Commander Cyril T. Simard. In those attacks enemy submarines shelled the island while warplanes fought overhead. In the March 10 attack a high four-motored Japanese patrol seaplane was shot down by Marine Corps aviators.

RAF Planes

heavy anti-aircraft fire but little Nazi fighter opposition, the air ministry reported.

The raiders planted their bombs squarely on Nazi airfields and everyone of them returned home safely.

Before the Germans had recovered from the shock of the first sortie, Lannion was attacked again by British Whirlwinds, each blazing away at low level with all four of their cannons. They were accompanied by Spitfires.

Attack at Dawn The RAF beat the sun up this morning and in the half light of dawn started massed formations of fighters and bombers across the channel in a day-long procession against northern France.

Industrial targets along the Nazi-held continental coast were pounded by the daylight raiders following upon a weather-dictated lull which kept most of Britain's bombers at home last night. Despite bad flying conditions over inland Europe, the RAF made short night hops across the channel to blast Dieppe and airfields in the Netherlands.

It was the second raid-free night for Germany proper out of the last six.

Targets included those in the Calais-Dunkerque area, harbor works at Le Havre, airfields in Brittany and military establishments at Ostend.

The British announced losses for the day were six fighters each for both sides.

Ocean City Not Discouraged by Hardships of War

Citizens Expect Good Season in Spite of Many Restrictions

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

OCEAN CITY, Md., June 5 (AP)—War is literally pulling down the shades at night at this window upon the sea, but officials of the Maryland resort still hope optimistically for a good season.

As yet the signs are too few to predict what war and travel restrictions will mean to Ocean City, summer-time boom town that last year had its greatest season with an estimated business of several million dollars or more.

And as yet the only outward changes in Ocean City are the shading of light at night in homes and hotels, masking of lights along the boardwalk by the murmuring surf so they shine only toward shore, and the dim-out driving area extending three-quarters of a mile inland. It imposes a 15-mile speed after dark, and driving with parking lights.

Summer Season Delayed

And the summer season, usually underway between June 1 and 15, is slower in starting with only a relative handful of early arrivals. Mayor Clifford P. Cropper said he expected the season really to be launched between June 15 and July 1 this year.

Memorial Day, traditional opening of the season, was vastly different, and in contrast to a huge boardwalk crowd last year, during the last weekend "you could almost count the people on the boardwalk," one hotel owner said.

Mayor Cropper said the memorial weekend crowd was "bigger than we expected," and predicted that for the summer "if we have good weather, we will have the people."

Many hotel men said early June reservations were fewer than last year, but one said May and June business held to former levels. Mayor Cropper expressed belief that more persons "are coming here on the spur of the moment, rather than making long range plans."

Lighter Week Ends

Charles W. Purnell, Chamber of Commerce president and owner of two hotels, said he believed weekend would "not be so heavy," but there would be more visitors during the week "so the aggregate may be about the same."

"Everything is in our favor," he added, "and now in wartime there's more reason than ever for people to take time to relax in bathing or fishing or a quiet rest."

"There's nothing to these wild reports that get about that there is tar on the beach, or bodies floating ashore, or that submarines are going to shell Ocean City. And as for the government taking over our place, nothing could be more absurd."

Draws Many Visitors

In winter Ocean City has a population of about 1,100 persons, three-quarters of whom are engaged in businesses connected with resort activities. In summer it draws thousands upon thousands of visitors, and Mayor Cropper said the peak day last year drew 80,000 persons for swimming, boating, dancing and amusements.

It became a popular resort about 1885, in days when people came by carriage and boat. Its popularity grew with the automobile, but this year more persons will come by bus. Ocean City is not served by train.

What will happen this summer is the prime topic everywhere. Ocean City has an assessed valuation of about $1,500,000, and some persons depend entirely upon the summer business for livelihood.

Most business men are optimistic for a good season, and a few see business as good as ever. Mayor Cropper reported that "there would be a lot of building right now if it were not for priorities."

Marked Increase

list, the commissioner reported, with failure to observe boulevard stop signs and failing to keep in proper lanes on the highway and passing on the wrong side well up on the list.

Elgin estimated that approximately eighty-five per cent of the motorists were complying with federal and state requests to limit speeds to forty miles per hour as a tire-saving measure.

Red Air Force

trouble Russian dispatches reported consecutive defeats for the Spanish "Blue Division," the Norwegian legion and the Belgian "Flanders" legion, recruited at Brussels.

The midnight Soviet communique said that on the general front yesterday there was local fighting in some sectors and reconnaissance by both sides.

It said that on Thursday the Soviet air force knocked out twenty German tanks, shot up five enemy infantry companies and destroyed 135 vehicles loaded with troops and supplies, twenty-three guns and forty railroad cars.

Cologne Newspaper Reports City Is "Forever Lost" to the Germans

BERN, Switzerland, June 5 (AP)—The first Cologne newspapers since the monster RAF raid of last Saturday night reached neutral territory today, carrying the somber statement that the historic Rhine city, as its people have known it, is "forever lost."

The Koelnische Zeitung, resuming publication on Wednesday of this week, described Cologne as "a still smoking ruin," with some fires still alight and "whole quarters of the town empty."

(A German dispatch quoted by the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said all the property of 10,000 persons had been destroyed; that the central district of the city was ruined and that the damage had reached deep into the suburbs.)

Said the Koelnische Zeitung: "The entire aspect of the city is completely changed. Tens of thousands of inhabitants during the night learned with horror ### that the individual is powerless against fate."

The newspaper avoided saying whether the vast and magnificent gothic cathedral, famous the world over, had been hit, but it did say that "most of the precious monuments which have held a chief place in German art were more or less destroyed by fire and are irreparable. It went on:

"Those who survived the night of May 30 and who on the morning looked at the city were fully aware that they had bade farewell forever to their Cologne, because the damage is enormous and because the integral part of the character and even the tradition of the city is gone forever."

"Everywhere the same spectacle—indescribable destruction. Only shattered windows and walls are seen."

Ship Situation Much Improved

Submarines Driven South, Navy Report of Sinkings Says

[By The Associated Press] Naval officers of the eastern sea frontiers, a wreck-littered stretch of 1,200 miles extending from Canada to Jacksonville, Fla., said today that the submarine menace in this district was steadily decreasing and that steps were being taken that would insure more gasoline for the drying New England states.

Three more ship losses in the Atlantic—one Dutch, one Norwegian and one British—were reported, bringing the total of twenty this week and the total officially announced Atlantic attacks to 247 since Pearl Harbor.

Commenting on these losses naval authorities said today that they were severe and that the next four or five months would be "a critical period."

In New York, naval officials said that less than one percent of 2,500 ships leaving an eastern port between Dec. 7 and May 31 had been destroyed. They said that anti-submarine activity by planes and ships had driven U-boats southward to the gulf and the Caribbean.

They emphasized that American naval and air forces are still inadequate to cope with the problem completely and that it was up to America's humming shipyards and factories to produce the necessary vessels—and planes.

"We've got to take it on the nose and on the chin until production catches up with the needs," a spokesman said.

Defensive steps are being taken to insure oil tanker deliveries along the coast. A "fair" improvement has already been made.

Washington County Crops Reported Best In Many Years

KEEDYSVILLE, Md., June 5 (AP)—J. A. Miller, government weather observer and United States department of agriculture crop reporter, said today in all his memory Washington county crops had never looked better at this season than they do now.

Conditions have been ideal for wheat, corn, pastures, potatoes and garden crops, he said. He added the wheat crop, which will be harvested June 20, would be better than normal.

Farmers cultivating corn report this grain in excellent condition, Miller said.

Hundreds of acres of county land have been put out this summer in soy beans, Miller explained. He said one county grower who planted soybeans on a section of her farm that was unfit for many other crops, harvested a big crop last year, and made a profit.

Complete Blackout In New York City For 20 Minutes

By SETH MOSELEY

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—A complete blackout descended over the nation's greatest city tonight as more than 2,000,000 homes were plunged in darkness for twenty minutes.

Thousands of the city's 7,000,000 residents sat or stood underground, for service was stopped on two of its three great subway trunks for the first time in more than three decades.

The five boroughs—Queens, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan and Staten Island—co-operated in the first city-wide blackout on an eight-hour notice. Minor violations were noted by city officials in all boroughs, but the consensus was expressed by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, who watched the 320-square-mile area go dark from the Empire State building:

"I think it was really beyond expectation. Some 800 feet above Rockefeller Center, atop the observation tower of the RCA building, the city looked like this:

There wasn't a light perceptible in Brooklyn. One street light shone in the Bronx. You couldn't see a light in Staten Island.

A cluster of twelve lights—presumably railroad yard lights—shone in Long Island City across the East River.

About twenty-four red lights glared from La Guardia airport in Queens.

Several street lights shone for ten minutes, then were turned out in Central Park, Manhattan.

In Manhattan below 50th street more than fifty office building lights, apparently forgotten, annoyed air raid wardens.

One glaring light shone like a beacon from a floor close to the top of the highest building in the world—the Empire State building.

Practically all lights were doused at 9:30 p. m.—starting time of the test blackout—and winked on again four minutes after the prescribed twenty minutes had elapsed.

A board of transportation officials estimated that 294 subway and elevated trains were halted and that in Brooklyn a total of 853 trolley and buses lines were stopped during the blackout.

The blackout order called into active duty the police force of approximately 19,000 men and 173,000 air raid wardens.

CIO Pledges

"does not intend to permit anyone to interfere with the nation's war effort by injecting the false issue of immediate organic labor unity, thereby hoping that efforts to achieve this end would create disputes and friction that would undermine the growing collaboration and cooperation between the AFL and the CIO behind President Roosevelt and the nation's war program."

The board also proposed calling a national conference to win the war, with representation for every national and international union affiliated with the CIO and AFL.

The working field of such a conference would be increased production, political support for candidates who supported the president of the United States and the war effort, and increased labor participation in the administrative branch of the government.

To achieve "real unity" between the AFL and CIO, a conference of their executive councils would be held immediately. That meeting would establish a united national labor council to develop mutual confidence.

Bittner Resigns From the United Mine Workers headquarters came the announcement that Van A. Bittner had resigned as president of district 17, West Virginia, and that the resignation had been accepted. Bittner, attending the CIO meeting said he had sent a letter to the UMW board but it did not contain a resignation. Whereupon a UMW spokesman said Bittner's letter had asked for a certain consideration but nevertheless had submitted his resignation.

Bittner has been elected an assistant to the president of the United Steel Workers, headed by Philip Murray. The miners' policy committee ousted Murray as UMW vice-president last week and voted to carve the West Virginia district into two parts. Bittner, it was understood, informed the UMW executive board he intended to continue in his job with the steel workers.

Boys $300,000 Home The CIO board disclosed upon adjournment it has purchased a new home a half-block from the White House for $300,000. The building now is occupied by the Republican National Committee.

The CIO taxation program, designed to raise an additional ten billion, would include the following: Increase corporate surtax and normal tax to fifty per cent by maintaining the ninety-three per cent excess profits tax of the Ways and Means committee and reducing the credits; raise the rates, especially in the middle and higher brackets, of the income tax based on present exemptions; limited incomes to $25,000 a year after taxes.

A Good Deed Shines In a Naughty World

HAROLD L. ICKES, head of the Interior department, has indulged in such execrable language and made so many foolish blunders in doing so that it is difficult to accord him the customary respect and sympathetic understanding his responsible position should require. But, Harold does deserve a meed of credit. If not actual praise, in an important particular.

This is due to the almost incredible fact that Mr. Ickes's department has done something really noteworthy and exemplary by actually suggesting a worthwhile cut in its own budget. The department didn't start out that way in drawing up its plans for 1943, as like all the others, it asked for more money. But, later on, it changed its mind and came forward voluntarily with a suggestion of a ten-million-dollar cut. The House Appropriations committee has accepted the suggestion and, catching the spirit of the thing, has even made some further reductions.

Incredible? Yes, even astounding in view of the fact that nothing like it has happened amidst the riot of spending in Washington for years. Ten millions a year doesn't rate a great deal in comparison with that profligacy, but an actual recommended reduction of that amount is something as welcome to the sight of groaning taxpayers as it is miraculous.

While it is not easy to "cotton" to the nation's foremost scold, nevertheless, in seeing out of the fiscal darkness in which we have been immersed the candle light in his window yonder, one is prompted to observe with a due sense of appreciation that "so shines a good deed in a naughty world."

American Inventive Genius Scores Again

THE NAVY DEPARTMENT has disclosed the development of a huge new liquid-cooled aviation engine approaching 2,000 horse power, which foretells a revolutionary change in naval aircraft design.

If the navy's use of this extraordinary power plant follows the same general line of airplane construction adopted by the army with liquid-cooled engines, a new series of naval fighter craft, faster and more powerful than any now on first-line duty, is in the making.

With liquid-cooled motors, the army developed the P-40's, which have performed brilliantly in battle from England to Australia; the speedy new P-39, or Bell Airacobra; the twin-tailed P-38 and the P-1, a "mystery" fighter.

The navy has built up its carrier-based fighter plane force almost exclusively on air-cooled engines. The best of these now produce between 1,000 and 1,200 horse power, while some of the newer army pursuit planes are reported to exceed this figure. The largest known air-cooled aircraft engines now used by the navy are the 2,000-horse power units placed on the giant flying boat Mars.

Official silence cloaks both the performance figure and the future uses of the new engines. The formal announcement that it had been completed and placed on contract described it only as "considerably larger than any other liquid-cooled aircraft engine now in production," with power sufficiently great "as to compare favorably with that of the largest-type aircraft engine presently in use."

Thus we have another example of the prospect that American inventive genius, as well as American strength and fortitude, will help measurably to win this war.

More than a Second Front

GERMAN MILITARY LEADERS now have more of a second front on their hands than they had envisioned in their gravest fears. The nightmare of the military leaders is that German morale will break. Migrations of thousands of Germans, fleeing from RAF raids and going they know not where, certainly is adding fuel to the fire of internal disintegration.

German militarists blamed the weakness of the people for the loss of the First World War, and though Hitler has worked hard to instill fanatical loyalty into the younger people, civilian morale will not survive unless the people of middle and later years can be persuaded to hold out against great distress.

The second front is of course the continuous and devastating bombing of German cities by the British. They have battered important manufacturing centers on successive nights, making the most of civilian nerve-shattering as well as factory demolition. The virtual destruction of Cologne and Essen by thousands of British bombers is bound to shake civilian morale.

The Hitler propaganda agency can not conceal the truth from the German people and his attempts to do so have started rumors that have become increasingly terrifying as they drifted across the country. Hitler promised his subjects that Berlin and other cities would be defended against enemy bombers. He has not only failed to make good this boast, but has failed so miserably that no important German city is safe.

It can not be proved that the British have air superiority, for so much of Germany's air force is on the Russian front that the bombings may not be a reliable test. But Germany certainly lacks the air force to hold the British and the Russians off at the same time. Germany's grip on the occupied countries of Western Europe is in peril, as is its power to force the French to give more help, including the fleet. Hitler is tasting fear, and he can not long conceal it from anxious German civilians.

The West Coast Is Ready

THE ENTIRE WEST COAST of North America, from Nome to Mexico, is reported as prepared to repel any Jap attack, whether token or all-out, following Jap bombing raids on Dutch Harbor. Land, naval and air forces are standing by their guns and civilian defense is ready for any test.

Preparations to meet possible Jap sorties have been going ahead energetically all along the Pacific coast ever since Pearl Harbor. Defenses today are many times more effective than they were then. In addition to the bolstering of all armed services at top speed, Japanese aliens have been moved inland from the coast, the blackout technique has been perfected as nowhere else in the country and the people have steeled themselves to meet the fortunes of war.

If the attacks on Dutch Harbor were intended by the enemy to spread dismay and hysteria among the population of the coastal area, the purpose failed miserably. That was the effect of the American bombing raid on Tokyo and other Japanese cities on the Jap populace, but Americans are made of different material.

If the raids on Dutch Harbor had any effect on civilian morale, it was to warn Americans not to be surprised at what may come. Far from spreading mass fear, all the attacks Tokyo can launch on the United States can have only one effect—a more vigorous determination to prosecute the war against the Asiatic barbarians.

Additional Evidence, Though Not Needed

WE ARE NOT HEARING much of late about that threadbare alibi used so much in Washington as to the so-called apathy of the people respecting the war program. The reason is that it has been so overwhelmingly refuted that those who used it as a cloak to hide some of their own actions and failures are ashamed to attempt using it any more.

But if anything were needed by way of refutation it is to be found in a dispatch from Washington noting that so many have applied for training as officers of the new Women's Army Auxiliary Corps that the War department has been obliged to place a limit on the number who may undergo the physical examination.

Each of the nine corps areas will select 500 women for the examination from those who have received the highest ratings in mental alertness and in preliminary personal interviews. A second interview will be given those who pass the physical examination.

Women, mind you. This certainly doesn't register any lack of interest in the war program nor appreciation of all it involves and implies.

Before a Jap engages in any face-saving he might consult a dog specialist to learn whether he has a face to save.

Who Are You?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Sombody says: "I want you to know my friend, Johnny Jones."

You look up and smile. I smile, too. We grip hands. I say I am glad to know you. You say you are glad to know me. You look me over and I look at you—at your eyes, at your nose, at your mouth. As I look I have a feeling about you, as you perhaps have a feeling about me. We put each other on trial. We are attracted or we are repelled. We'd like to see each other again, or we don't care if we never see each other this side of eternity.

I know more about how I feel about you than I know about how you feel about me. I wonder what you think, but I can't know! That's your private affair, but mine, and I cannot question you too closely. I cannot ask, "Do you like me?" You would not ask if I liked you. It would be too embarrassing.

We say goodbye. And when, three days later, someone asks me if I know "Johnny Jones" I say yes I do. I know him. . . and that's a presumptuous thing for me to say. Because how can I say that I know you? I have met you and I know your name. You're the fellow with the red hair and the easy smile, but just how much do I KNOW you? I might speak to you for years and never know you at all. And when shall I ever know the you that you know best of all?

What is behind you in the years that stretch back to the beginning of things, to the savage gnawing on a bone, to the cave man on his rock, to the protoplasm—perhaps—in the stagnant pool? And what's behind you in your cradle, in your stumbling days, in your childhood? What has made you happy and what has bruised you and what has made you what you are? What have you dreamed and what have you fought for? What you gained and what have you nearly surrendered? What made you strong and what made you weak? What gave you the ideas you hold about life, about men and women, about work and pleasure and pain? . . . I do not know and you, it's likely, may not clearly know either.

And yet I say I know you. So simply, so casually, I say that I know Johnny Jones. That's impudence for you. . . I may like you. I may even, oddly enough, dislike you. But can I ever, in this tumultuous and distracting business of life ever get to know you? Who ARE you, anyway?

Military Secrecy Complicates the Rubber Problem

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Rationing of gasoline from coast to coast as a precautionary measure would seem to be justified on the basis of tire conservation.

This conclusion has been reached by high officials, not withstanding the criticism emanating from Congress to the effect that there is plenty of gasoline and plenty of reclaimed rubber available.

It is regrettable that the administration is not in a position as yet to take the public into its confidence on the reasons for the urgent need of tire conservation. To do so however, involves the publication of military data that would be useful to the enemy.

Thus, it has been frequently published that we have a stockpile of crude rubber amounting to 700,000 tons. This was accumulated through the efforts of Jesse Jones who has been publicly commended by the Truman committee of the Senate for handling the matter "expeditiously and ably."

Out of this 700,000 tons must come the crude rubber needed for military purposes until more crude rubber can be obtained from Ceylon and South America and other crude rubber developments outside of the Far East and also until synthetic rubber is available in large quantities.

Military Secrets

The exact amount which the military will require and the amount that has to be reported for the use of Britain and Russia are military secrets.

But—and here is the most important fact about the problem from the standpoint of the civilians of America—if 28,000 tons of crude rubber could be set aside to be mixed with reclaimed rubber, the tires now wearing out could be recapped and at least seventy-five per cent of their mileage extended for three years, by which time synthetic rubber would be available from plants now building.

Reclaimed, however, is not useful without crude rubber. Such recapped treads as have been made without some crude rubber have not afforded very much mileage. The total amount of crude rubber needed for recapping the vast number of tires needing it today is relatively small. One would think that 28,000 tons out of the stockpile now being accumulated would be a small amount to give for the use of defense workers and civilians generally who must maintain the economic system's operation.

Washington Befuddled

The military authorities, nevertheless, are going to hang on to every ounce of the stockpile that they can. They admit they have more than enough for military uses and could spare 30,000 tons if they knew when the war was going to end and how soon the synthetic rubber program was going to materialize into something concrete instead of a lot of conflicting talk. For the moment, the scientists have all Washington befuddled by their promises and their formulas and nobody in authority in the government really has as yet ventured to render an opinion as to which of the processes will work out best and how long it will take to get the synthetic plants built for the particular processes that prove successful.

Under the circumstances, about the only thing the administration can do and about the only thing the military authorities can do is to play it safe. They would like to tell the American people they could go ahead and use their tires more than is called for by the forthcoming rationing program which curtails the use of autos through the reduction in gasoline. But to do so is to take chances.

Can't Depend on Guess

The probabilities are that there may be enough crude rubber available to use with reclaimed rubber to keep America from losing too many of its present vehicles of transportation. There may also be a surprising amount of synthetic rubber available before another twelve months have passed.

But it is the responsibility of the government not to guess and it is the obligation of the public today to concur in the conservation program. Only by so doing can the rubber tire economy of America be kept rolling. And, if by chance, the breaks come and more crude rubber can be set aside, that will be a welcome development which officials will lose no time in communicating to an anxious electorate as far in advance of the autumn elections as possible.

Bread and Water

From the Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail

The normally contained and dignified Walter Lippmann, when it comes to a discussion of the confusion over gasoline and rubber and the steady stream of official, contradictory and confusing reports on it, lets go a little and says this:

"It is not asking for miracles to suggest that Messrs. Nelson, Jones, Ickes, Eastman, Henderson, Perkins and Wickard should lock themselves in a room and stay there, living on bread and water until they have agreed on what they are going to ask the people to do about gas and rubber. When they have made up their minds, which ought not to be too difficult, it would not be beneath their dignity, nor would it deprive any of them of their inalienable rights of free speech, if they issued one combined announcement of the government's policy."

Fighting a seven-front war, reasons Mr. Lippmann with a touch of fire and brimstone, we simply haven't the time and energy to struggle with seven publicity machines on the subject of why, when our rubber lost to Japan and our Atlantic tankers sunk or driven to port, we cannot go joy-riding as usual.

To this we add our hearty "Amen" and with it an offer to provide the necessary room, bread and water, if Washington should be running short of those essentials.

An Unpatriotic Thing To Do

From the Cincinnati Times-Star

The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the German and Italian declarations of war made the argument of "isolationist" vs. "interventionist" out of date. Immediately after Pearl Harbor the president said the nation stood as a unit behind the war effort. He was right. If there is a member of Congress today who does not favor pushing the war to a victorious conclusion at any cost in blood and treasure, we do not know his name. After Pearl Harbor the "isolationists" made clear, by word and action, that

About ships, and the destruction of them by submarines and planes—which remains America's greatest single war problem—three steps emerged this week:

An enormous quantity of new cargo ships, 23,000,000 tons, is stated as the expected output of our shipyards by the end of 1943. The expectation is expressed by Admiral Land, in charge of cargo ship construction. His judgment is supported by others well-informed. Production of new cargo ships is going ahead with assuring speed and efficiency.

An immense addition to the navy—500 fighting ships and 300 subordinate craft—is provided by a bill introduced in the House, sponsored by the Naval Affairs committee.

Newspaper publication by well-informed writers says that the navy has completed arrangements by which it is expected submarine sinkings off our Atlantic coast will be checked by the middle of July. The arrangements include a close policing of the waters along our Atlantic coast, in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean, by great numbers of patrol boats and other naval and air craft.

Problem Remains

These are important and cheering developments. But, assuming all these things are done, the shipping problem will still remain, still continue to be America's principal single war problem. Even if the waters off our Atlantic coast are made absolutely safe, even if it becomes impossible for a submarine to attack successfully in these waters—the submarine menace will merely move to some other spot. It will continue as a handicap to our winning the war. Moreover, two of this week's steps—building more cargo ships and more naval vessels—will take time, much time. Meanwhile, by late information, two grim facts exist:

One is, Allied cargo ships are being sunk faster than new ones are being built.

The other is, enemy submarines are being built faster than they are being destroyed. Ways of meeting the submarine menace, effectively, fall into several categories. An obvious one is, build more cargo ships. This is absolutely necessary—but is also the least effective way of overcoming the submarine. It is like growing more corn for the rats to eat. As Mr.

Walter Lippmann put it the other day, "there is no use building ships in 60 days for the Germans to sink in 12 minutes."

Built for Needs

We build more cargo ships because we must have more. We do not build them for the purpose of overcoming submarine destruction. Overcoming the submarine is a separate problem, to be met in other ways.

One way is to protect the cargo ship by means of escort and patrol craft, naval and air. If the protection is protection only, it is not a complete answer. If the submarines are merely prevented from attacking in certain spots and along certain ocean lanes, they will merely go elsewhere. The submarines which now infest our Atlantic Coast are here largely because they have temporarily left spots near Europe where cargo ships are well protected. This is a world-wide war, and it is impossible to give adequate protection everywhere in all the seven seas.

If the protecting naval and air craft are more than protective, if they are equipped to chase and attack submarines they sight, that is more effective.

This brings us into the area of the sure way to overcome the submarines, which is to seek them out and destroy them. They can be sought in the oceans where they operate. While this is difficult, it has been until recently the only way readily available. It has one advantage, a psychological one. When submarines go out from Germany, and do not return within an expected time, there is a dispiriting effect on the morale of home bases, and the crews of other submarines. Suspense is especially damaging to morale. Such discouragement in German ports, spreading to the people, was a large contribution to the ending of the war in 1918.

At the Source

But the best of all possible ways of overcoming the submarines is to go to the spots where they are built and launched, and destroy them there. This is becoming more possible. Indeed this is perhaps partially accomplished by the growing ability of the British to attack chosen spots on the Axis coast by air. In proportion as we and Britain become able, by naval or air craft or both, to attack points in Germany and Japan where submarines are launched, the submarine will be overcome. The Germans know this, however, and have made their submarine bases difficult to find and attack.

The futility of trying merely to outdistance the submarine by building more cargo ships is shown by some figures sent me by an associate editor of the Marine Journal. Records after the Great War showed that three German submarines had each sunk over 300,000 tons of shipping. That would be fifty to sixty cargo ships of average size. Obviously, building more ships was not the answer to those submarines—the only answer was to destroy them. Twenty-two other German submarines had each sunk over 100,000 tons of shipping.

Building more cargo ships is a problem standing alone. Overcoming submarines is a problem standing alone.

Isolationist Move Is Clarified as a New Deal Scheme

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The ardent liberal campaign to banish all so-called isolationists from public life in the midst of war was started by the New Republic Magazine for reasons not clear at the time.

The implication was that they were unpatriotic. But an inspection of their voting records in Congress since December 7 showed they generally supported every war measure and were not talking much. Actually they were no obstacle to the war effort.

When that reason thus fell down, other publications which took up the campaign, turned to the point that isolationists should be exterminated because they opposed getting into the war before we got into the war. The liberals hammered that reason for a while, but it left matters just as much in the dark as ever, because Mr. Roosevelt opposed getting into the war before we got in.

President Included

His speeches and statements show this to have been his announced policy in the re-election. If that is the measure of isolationism, then the president was an isolationist and so were most of the people of the country.

Any real reason for the campaign continued to be unexplained until the New Republic's June 8 issue came out this week. Then it offered a good reason.

It said it was not soaking isolationists because they were isolationists, but because most of them were against the New Deal. Quote:

"The enemies of the New Deal are the very ones who would keep us from winning the peace. This is an issue which must be fought and won on the domestic front, and it must be won while the war is being waged."

That clarifies the matter. The attack, it now appears, was timed all along for the primaries and the congressional elections, for domestic political reasons—which are far enough in themselves. But such a clarification certainly requires the liberals to drop that fake mantle of patriotism under which they have been hiding this purely political sword.

The question then is whether the New Republic and associates are going to dictate the peace and future domestic politics after eliminating their political opponents from the discussion during the coming elections.

Tax Objectives Missed

Mourning about the new tax bill is widespread among those who are making it and who may bring it about in about two weeks. Designed to curb inflation and raise $8,600,000,000, it does neither.

The government economists are clicking their teeth about it because it will make the nation's total federal tax bill about $24,000,000,000 a year, only about one-fourth of our national income and that income may go to $120,000,000,000 by the time the bill becomes effective. They all say it therefore cannot be a guarantee against inflation.

Mr. Morgenthau first asked for a $7,600,000,000 bill and then sent up supplemental requests which would bring it up to $8,600,000,000. As it stands now the bill would raise less than $6,000,000,000.

If a $20,000,000,000 sales tax were added, the revenue raising deficiency would be met, but the administration is inherently opposed even to the phrase "sales tax."

Lowest Group Untouched

The bill does not touch those taxpayers in the lower third of the income tax brackets where most of the "excess income" is, the income which the administration economists fear will cause inflation.

Lower exemptions will touch this group lightly, but the committee agrees that many in the group are not accustomed to paying income taxes and did not get into the habit when the brackets were dropped last time, so they do not consider the added burden as onerous.

In general the bill gets added revenue from the same sources the government has been tapping more and more in recent years—business and the investing class. The corporation tax (normal plus surtax) is forty per cent, and the excess profits tax ninety-four per cent in addition.

While the committee has turned down many specific treasury recommendations, it has in general followed the treasury pattern. This, of course, is a campaign year.

Party Chairmen Agree To Date For Primary

Will Be Held September 8 as Set by Attorney General Walsh

BALTIMORE, June 5 (AP)—Truman B. Cash, Democratic State Central Committee chairman, and W. David Tilghman, Jr., Republican State Central Committee chairman, jointly announced today September 8 had been set as the date for the primary elections this year.

Following a conference with Attorney General William C. Walsh, the two party heads said the decision was subject to ratification by their respective committees in a mail poll to be made at once.

They added they expected no objections.

September 14 had been set previously for the primary under a statute authorizing the two committees' governing parties to set the date. The secretary of state had been notified of this decision.

Election authorities protested that the September 14 primary would nullify absentee votes cast by members of the armed forces. The law, they held, did not permit the votes by mail to be counted until ten days after the primary.

Party nominating conventions, they contended, must be held not later than September 18.

The general election, to name a governor, attorney general, comptroller, six congressmen, all members of the legislature, and state court-house officers.

Section Foreman John McKinley Gallagher, Cumberland Division, B. & O. Railroad, is ranked as a "Number One Patriot" in the current issue of the B. & O. Magazine.

Gallagher, who lives at Rawlings, is a veteran of World war I, having given a false age to enlist—he was only sixteen when the United States entered the war. He went to France with the Eighth Machine Gun Battalion, Third Army, and fought through many of the worst battles without being injured.

Today, the father of eight children, he is an air-raid warden for his area, having supervision over several deputy wardens. Capt. Conlon announced that Lieut. Griffith Lewis, Frostburg, a member of the state guard, would be authorized to administer the oath to those who were not present last night.

COURT OF APPEALS RESCINDS VERDICT FOR $2,650 DAMAGES

A recent decision by the Maryland Court of Appeals rescinded a $2,650 damage award made by a jury in the October term of Allegheny County Circuit Court.

The court ruled that damages in favor of Nellie R. Rising of Westminster, against D. Eldred Reinhardt, of Smithsburg were not justified.

Growing out of a motor vehicle accident, the suit contended that Reinhardt's truck collided with the Rising auto on September 4, 1939, at the intersection of Gamber road and Route 140. The truck was Baltimore bound on the main road when the Rising car emerged from the intersection at Gamber road.

The court of appeals in its opinion says negligence on the part of the driver of the Reinhardt truck was not established.

The case was removed here from Washington county where the jury failed to agree at an earlier trial.

Friday: The Day of Suffering

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 7 is Luke 23:33-46; Mark 15:33, 34 (compare John 19:25-30), the Golden Text being Isaiah 53:5, "He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed.")

THE PLACE where our Lord was crucified was called Golgotha, or the place of a skull. Some think it was so called because the mound at that place was shaped somewhat like a skull; others think it was given that name because it was there dead bodies were thrown.

Jesus was nailed to the cross, and on each side of Him were hung a thief—a common criminal, who was probably not only a thief, but a murderer. This was the final humiliation of One who had done nothing but good in the short time He was upon the earth. This punishment was probably planned by those who feared Him, so as to show their contempt for the Man who had dared to tell them they were hypocrites and scoundrels.

One of the robbers derided Him, saying, "If Thou be Christ, save thyself and us." But the other chided him, saying, "Dost not thou fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation? And we indeed justly, for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this man hath done nothing amiss."

"And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into Thy kingdom."

"And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

Never Too Late
It is never too late to repent of even a life of wickedness, you see. This man could not have been wholly bad. He saw that he deserved his punishment and repented, and was forgiven.

Over Jesus' head a sign had been hung at Pilate's command, reading, "This is the King of the Jews." The chief priests and Scribes didn't like this, and protested to Pilate, but he refused to have it changed. And the people stood looking at Him in His agony, and the rulers also, the latter jeering and sneering at Him, saying, "He saved others; let Him save Himself, if He be Christ, the chosen of God."

Four soldiers were detailed to guard the crucified man, and they took Jesus' garments, dividing them into four parts, and cast lots.

For them. During the hours when Christ hung on the cross He spoke seven times. When the soldiers were nailing Him to the cross, He said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." These words are typical of His teaching on earth, forgive your enemies, do good to those that despitefully use you.

The second was what He said to the repentant thief. The third was to His mother, Mary, who knelt at the foot of the cross, and to His most loved disciple. To His mother, He said, "Woman, behold thy son"; and to the disciple, John, "Behold thy mother." From that hour, John tells us, "that disciple took her unto his own home."

The fourth saying of our Lord was apparently a cry of anguish, "My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" Did He indeed feel that His Father had forsaken Him? I think not, only the man Jesus suffered as a man and cried out as a man would.

At the sixth hour the sky had darkened and some of the accounts say there was a great earthquake, which frightened the watchers. The veil of the temple, which separated the Holy of Holies from the rest of the temple, was "rent in twain from the top to the bottom."

"After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, 'I thirst.'"

There was a vessel of vinegar or sour wine near by, probably put there for the soldiers who guarded Him to quench their thirst. One of them took a sponge on a long branch and held it to His mouth. John says that Jesus received it; others that He refused it. And He said, "It is finished," which is His sixth saying, and then, "Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit."

At the ninth hour, when Jesus had given up the ghost, the centurion who stood near the cross said, "Truly this man was the Son of God." It would be interesting to know what impression this scene had on this soldier's after life. Did he, like the thief, repent of his sins and did he join the band of Christ's followers? We do not know, of course.

So ends the life of the Christ Man, Jesus, on earth. Only to His disciples and close friends did He appear again after the resurrection, and then He was with them only for a short time. We suffer when we think of this time, but by His death He brought life to the world—everlasting life.

Parents Should Visit Classroom Of Schoolchild

Youngsters Are Human and Like to Talk about Things They Do

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Most of us parents know very little about our children's school. This is absurd when their future rests so heavily upon their school success.

As a matter of fact, the more we know about our children's school the more we are able to do to help them get along in their studies and the more also do we receive in return for the taxes which we pay for public education.

What most parents know about their children's school they pick up from the remarks dropped by their boys and girls at home. Children are human. They, therefore, are likely to talk about the things at school which annoy them, the things they don't like. They take for granted the good things. So do we.

For you and me to spend half a

URGES HOME WAR FRONT

Eric Palmer, Sr.

There should be a general staff on the Main Street home front, Eric Palmer, Sr., lecturer and merchandising consultant, told the Kiwanis Club of New Brunswick, N. J., urging a tightening up of the war effort at home to afford greatest aid to the men at the front. Palmer demanded practical effort of practical patriots to take the load off official Washington. He is engaged in a nationwide lecture tour.

day in the classroom of our children in the second or fifth or eighth grade is to get a liberal education.

New Methods
We may be surprised at what we see and hear. There is not the military atmosphere in this school to which we might have been exposed when we were pupils in the grades. There is little time spent on enforcing strict discipline. The teacher does not use her time in trying to detect and correct mischief makers. Instead, she may not be heard to say a thing about conduct. The children do most of the talking and working while she, like a master engineer, quietly moves among the pupils helping a little here, offering a suggestion there, answering more questions than she asks.

Not all the students are doing the same thing. Numerous projects and activities are under way. There may be several groups of children working together on whose faces signs of enjoyment are apparent.

Happier Evenings at Home
At home in the evening you may see your own children and several of the neighbors' carrying on some of the things they had begun at school, particularly the younger children. Other things begun at home may be continued next day at school. We parents little realize how much the best modern school has been doing to add to the happiness of children's evening home hours. It will do them and us a great deal of good if we make ourselves acquainted with these high spots of our schools.

A graded list of books for the child from six to 12 to read may be had by writing me at 235 East Fifty-fifth street, New York city, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. How soon would you take a child to the public library?
A. As soon as he can toddle and enjoy listening to rhymes and stories read to him. Let him have a library card of his own on which will be charged the books borrowed to be read to him. Blessed is the child who thus early begins with his parent the library habit and keeps on exercising this habit the rest of his life.

Q. Would it be reasonable to require the boy or girl using the family car to have it home not later than midnight?
A. Yes; except for very rare occasions.

The Office of Defense Transportation recently inspected a giant trailer bus designed to solve the wartime home-to-factory transportation problem. The bus, which uses practically no war materials, seats 141 persons.

Companionship Is Feature of Test For True Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX—Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"How can I distinguish between genuine love and fascination?" writes a gentleman who is on the point of making a final choice. He wants to know what tests can be applied to determine whether he is experiencing a permanent or temporary emotion. He's about to leave for the Army and wants to settle the question before he goes.

One can't be too dogmatic about these things—and I wish some of the readers of this column would write in and help him.

Byron Was One of Best
A man or woman beginning to fall in love, who can calmly decide which is love and which is fascination, must be more than human. The world's great lovers could never make up their minds which was which until it was too late. Byron, whose irresistible charm still lingers in his letters and biographies, was one of the world's great lovers. He had only to walk through a room and a majority of the ladies present would want to go with him on his harum-scarum adventures. A good many did, and his lordship would almost immediately discover that what he had experienced was nothing more than a temporary attraction—and there he would be with a feminine encumbrance on his hands.

He usually squared things by writing the lady a poem about their past raptures and she would go home with her poem and her memories. One of Byron's loves kept a ribbon stretched across the arms of the chair in which he was accustomed to sit; she didn't want anybody else to profane it by sitting in it.

Women have no more wisdom in the matter than men.

The acid test for genuine love is said by one authority to be companionship. Are you interested in the same things? Have you the same likes and dislikes; do you get on each other's nerves; are you bored to tears by the things the other takes seriously?

In other words, does the beloved fit into the picture of your life as you've always framed it? What are your interests in common? A summary of these things may help you to decide between love and attraction. But no one can be sure.

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By Dean Holiday

INSECTS AND DISEASES IN VICTORY GARDENS

Beans are subject to certain diseases and insects and need to be protected against them. Cleaning up all trash in the vegetable garden is an important "first aid" measure as many insects pass the winter in a dormant stage on old refuse and when Spring arrives they hasten to produce another generation.

As depicted in the drawing, the most destructive insect pest of beans is the Mexican Bean Beetle. The adult beetles and their spiny larvae feed on the underside of the leaves giving the plants a lace-like appearance and causing considerable damage. They can be controlled by spraying or dusting the undersides of the leaves thoroughly with Rotenone. The climbing or pole beans can be sprayed more easily and therefore, where these beetles are prevalent, should be grown in preference to the bush varieties.

Never cultivate, weed, pick or even walk through the bean rows when the plants are wet as the spores of bean canker or anthracnose are spread from one plant to another very easily at such a time.

The German labor situation has become particularly critical due to loss of men in battle and need for drawing replacements from the labor force, according to the department of Commerce.

Stocks Continue To Advance under Leadership of War Infant Shares

Profit-Taking Reduces Gains, but Rise Is Later Resumed

By BERNARD S. O'HARA

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—The stock market made its third in a row on the recovery side today with so-called war infants, recently in the drooping division, attracting the principal buying attention.

Profit taking cropped up after a fairly good start but the selective climb was resumed around mid-day when steel, aircraft, chemicals and assorted specialties stepped to the fore. Motors, mail orders and oils were among the laggards. Copper, rails and utilities trailed along with modest plus signs.

Activity was interspersed with sluggish periods but transfers of 486,179 shares compared with 524,300 yesterday.

A nation-wide flattening out of retail sales impeded shares of merchandising companies.

Among stocks managing to edge into new high ground for the year were Zenith Radio, Goodyear and Goodrich. Well in front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Sperry, American Telephone, Anaconda, Dow Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, N. Y. Shipbuilding, Philip Morris and J. C. Penney.

Chrysler lost 1 1/2 and lesser casualties included General Motors, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Woolworth, Caterpillar Tractor, duPont, Standard Oil (N.J.), Westinghouse and General Electric.

In the Curb Pittsburgh Plate Glass rose 4 1/2 and advances of fractions to around 2 were shown for American Cyanamid, Humble Oil, Sherwin Williams and American Gas. Turnover here aggregated 66,634 shares versus 64,050 the day before.

The bond market kept fairly well on the advancing side with good support from the rails and some utilities. While there were numerous backsliders, especially among industrials, losses were generally small.

Total transfers of $5,398,700, par value compared with $6,742,000 on Thursday.

Well up in front of the upward moving side today were Cleveland Union Terminal 5 1/2 at 67 1/2, Baltimore and Ohio stamped convertibles of 60 at 19 1/2, St. Paul 5 1/2 at 15 1/2, New York Central 5 1/2 at 49 1/2 and Southern Pacific 4 1/2 at 48 1/2.

Unchanged to lower were Chicago and North Western general 5 1/2 and 6 1/2, Great Northern 5 1/2 and Reverse Copper and Brass 3 1/2.

U. S. governments were quiet but fairly steady.

"Broadway" Has Screen Scoops of New York

Screen scoop of the year was scored by Universal in making "Broadway," the thrilling drama of New York after dark now playing at the Strand theater with George Raft and Pat O'Brien as its stars.

"Broadway" is the first, and possibly the last film feature of current war-time to provide a visual picture of New York as it appears with its "face lifted" to conform to war strategy regulations.

To Producer Bruce Manning, ex-newspaperman, author and playwright, goes credit for anticipating a "blackout" of New York's new silhouette "for the duration." "Broadway" was in production when Pearl Harbor was bombed. Immediately invoking an emergency switch of schedules, Manning sent a flying crew to New York and literally "pirated" his shots before the Government clamped down an air-tight lid on filming over the metropolis.

Thus, in "Broadway," "Remember Pearl Harbor," blends with "Buy Defense Bonds" and other war-time signs which cast their glare over Times Square. Likewise traffic moving under new regulations since Pearl Harbor is identifiable on the screen, while shots from a plane winging over New York to land at its airports were also made after the Jap bombing.

Star's Mood-Music In "Tortilla Flat"

An elaborate musical score was composed and conducted for "Tortilla Flat," now showing at the Maryland theater, screen adaptation of John Steinbeck's novel, by Franz Waxman. He used old Spanish California themes as a guide for an entirely original composition.

While most of the score is in mood effects, employing unusual instruments, such as combinations of guitars, pizzicato strings, oboes, flutes and contra bassoon, a melodic theme for Hedy Lamarr is played in various scenes in the story, with violins, flutes and strings.

Spencer Tracy is comedy motive, not melody, on contra bassoon, and John Garfield is given a lulling comedy motive in strings. The love theme is in idealized waltz time.

with strings, flutes and harp predominating. The dreamy music and sprightly dances of old Monterey, locale of the story, were improvised upon rather than paraphrased, none being used in their original form but all forming models for new music bearing their flavor.

Waxman devoted two months to locating themes, some of Mexican and Spanish origin, some descended from Portuguese folksong.

Film of Wide Open Town Has Authentic Setting

The setting for Warner Brothers "Juke Girl" now showing at the Liberty, and starring Ann Sheridan, is a rowdy, sprawling, brilliantly neon-lighted "juke" town, rough and raucous, that comes to life when the sun goes down and exhausts itself only at dawn.

It is a two street town, one running north and south, the other east and west. Solidly packed along the four blocks are bars, gambling joints and dance halls, all thronged, all noisy.

It is a place called Cat Tail, Florida, and if it was running any place other than the fenced in limits of the Warner Brothers studio ranch it would be closed by California authorities quicker than a barrel can flop over Niagara Falls.

There, each night Ann Sheridan, Ronald Reagan, Richard Whorf, Alan Hale, Gene Lockhart and some 800 or 900 extras, whooped it up, engaging in fights, even forming a lynch mob.

"Some audiences may feel that we have over-staged our juke town. But we haven't," says Curtis Bernhardt, the young and serious director. "We copied Cat Tail directly from one in Belle Glade, Florida."

Buck Jones, Western Star, Is Real Thing

Buck Jones, appearing in the latest Rough Rider series, Monogram's "Below the Border," which ends today at the Embassy theater can boast a background of hard riding and quick shooting. His life has been a series of actionful events, among them the famous Miller's starting when he was a youngster on his father's ranch in Oklahoma. Even before Buck was able to climb into a saddle, he was an expert in marksmanship and fancy roping. A member of the United States Caval-

Kid Sister Not Awed by "Tillie"

What does young brother and sister think when big sister wins a contract in Hollywood to become a motion picture star?

Kay Harris, signed by Columbia without previous screen experience, to play Tillie in the screen version of Russ Westover's cartoon strip, "Tillie the Toiler," got two answers to that question, during production of the comedy now at the Garden theater.

Brother James, 17, wrote: "When will you have money enough to buy one of those snappy convertible coupes?"

Sister Martha Ann, 12, wrote: "Is Robert Montgomery really as handsome as he looks on the screen?"

The co-feature at the Garden is "Slick to Your Guns," a western starring Willard Byrd as Hopalong Cassidy. Also included in the cast are Brad King, Jacqueline Holt and Andy Clyde.

LEMON TART SAUCE glorifies the vegetables

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
Wide World Food Editor

Since so much food comes right out of the kitchen, Mrs. Housewife has to take extra pains, these days, when planning her family's meals.

Menus need to be nutritionally sound and appetite-arousing. And the old budget has priorities.

GARDEN SUCCOTASH can take over the main part of a dinner. To serve 4, simmer 2 minutes, 2 tablespoons each of chopped onions and celery in 1/2 cup diced bacon. Add 2 cups each, corn and green beans (fresh or canned) and cook slowly 5 minutes. Pour in 1/2 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon chopped pimientos (optional), 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Cook about 10 minutes or until well blended. Stir in an egg or 2 yolks, beaten, and when mixed, serve in a heated dish.

SAVORY LIVER: Simmer 1 pound sliced liver 10 minutes in 1 cup hot water. Drain and reserve the stock. Sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Arrange in shallow baking dish. Add the stock with 2 tablespoons butter and 1/2 cup tomatoes. Bake covered 25 minutes in moderate oven. Uncover and bake 10 minutes to brown.HAM DORSET: Place a pound slice of ham in a shallow baking pan. Cover it with 3 cups sliced raw potatoes mixed with 4 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon each chopped parsley and celery, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Add 2 cups milk and a lid. BakeLEMON TART SAUCE
Two egg yolks, 1/4 cup cream, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, dash of nutmeg, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cook all but butter in double boiler until thick and creamy, stirring constantly (about 2 to 3 minutes). Do not overcook. Stir in butter bit by bit. Serve at once over hot vegetables. Makes about 1/2 cup sauce.

40 minutes in moderate oven. Uncover and bake 15 minutes.

NEOPOLITAN MACARONI: Add 1/2 cup sliced or grated cheese to 2 cups well seasoned white sauce. Add 3 cups cooked macaroni, 2 sliced hard-boiled eggs and 1 tablespoon chopped parsley. Pour into a buttered, shallow baking dish and bake 35 minutes in a moderate oven. Enough to serve 5.STUFFED TOMATOES: Scoop out centers from 6 large firm tomatoes. Stuff with 1 cup drained corn mixed with 1 cup mushrooms, 2 tablespoons each chopped onions and green peppers. Add 3 tablespoons melted butter and season with salt and paprika. Arrange the stuffed tomatoes in a shallow baking pan. Cover with 2 cups cream of pea soup (canned). Bake 35 minutes in a moderate oven. This is a meat alternate with plenty of food appeal.CHEESE FONDUE: Mix together 1 cup bread cubes, 1/2 cup grated cheese, 1 cup hot milk, 3 beaten eggs, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 cup chopped salted peanuts, 1/4 teaspoon paprika. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 35 minutes in moderately slow oven (325).Some Spices Will Be Plentiful

Let variety be the spice of your life and don't be disgruntled over the spice situation. You can still use freely of the following: cayenne, red pepper, mustard, chili powder, dill seeds, oregano, paprika, curry, cake spice, pickling spice, celery seed, bay leaves, marjoram, cardamom, anise, and black pepper. The ones to use carefully are: cinnamon, mace, allspice, white pepper, cloves, nutmeg and ginger.

How To Get Cool

Trying to keep cool in hot weather is often useless. The secret is to get cool by giving the system plenty of liquid. For instance, a soft drink is refreshing going down, but it does ten times the good later as it carries away heat through evaporation from the skin, medical men say.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

IT WAS WAR, as Marg had said it would be, after being the first to hear the grim news of the attack on Pearl Harbor. Her first thoughts, of course, had been for Captain Mercer, although she realized it would be weeks probably before she would know whether or not he was alive. No news would be good news.

Tibby, too, had her own personal reaction, which she realized was a personal and, therefore, selfish one. Even in the face of such a big issue, such a grave issue as war, each of us—especially if that person is a woman—faces it from the personal viewpoint, wondering if her loved one, son, husband or sweetheart will have to be among those to make the great sacrifice.

Tibby's reaction was not this. She was concerned, of course, for all those dear to her. Tommy, Marg's John, Wayne, the boys back home. But her first thought, as to how this war would affect her personally was that now Wayne could not insist upon an immediate marriage. She knew that was a selfish thought, almost a shameful one, but it was one she could not suppress or deny. It was one she knew she ought to examine and analyze, for that was not the sort of thought she should have had.

Most girls would have reacted exactly the other way. They would have thought of marriage as soon as possible, before their sweethearts could be sent away. Most girls would have thought that they must snatch happiness, brief happiness of which Marg had spoken, even more quickly than before, since it might indeed be short lived.

And here was Tibby thinking, almost with relief, that the war would be a means of postponement of her wedding. It must be, she felt, if so, she ought to analyze her emotions still further. She thought she loved Wayne enough to marry him, but if she did not love him enough to want to marry him before he might have to go to war, then maybe she did not love him at all.

There she was, back in the same old tangle, only knotted in worse confusion. It was a tangle that war should have unraveled, rather than tying the threads tighter. It should have clarified her emotions, instead of clouding them into deeper perplexities. The irony of it all was that Wayne took exactly the opposite view, the expected, proper view that a fiancé should take. He phoned Tibby the day that war was officially declared to tell her that that meant he would have to be out of town again for a short while. He said that he would be back by the following week-end, if possible, the week-end when he had planned to present her to his family. He said, before he rang off, "Of course, my dear, you realize that this means that we must be married just as soon as possible. Therefore, it is doubly important that I get everything arranged."

Tibby did not remember, afterward, what she had said to that. Perhaps Wayne had hung up before she could say anything. He had been calling from his office and had been in a terrible rush. She did wish he did not do things with such lightning velocity. No wonder they took your breath, left you shaking all over.

For Tibby found she actually was shaking after she had hung up. Of course she was all unstrung; Tommy HAD said such dreadful things to her, things she had known he would say. He had declared she was marrying a man entirely too old for her—and that he was surprised she would marry a man for his money. Tommy had said he could not think of any other reason than money for Tibby's marriage to Wayne.

Tibby should have given him some, but she had been much too hurt and angry. She had just sailed out of the room, without giving him any answer. She had hoped that would be much more effective than any mere words, but afterward she had wondered. She thought of all she should have said, the way one always can when it is too late to say them.

Then there had been the war, which was a shock, too—although now people were saying we should have been prepared for it.

Then to have Wayne tell it all off by saying that they must, of course, be married as soon as possible. Well, no wonder she felt shaky and unstrung. She was to go on feeling that way, for Tibby found she could not pull herself together. She had had a wild impulse to run away when Wayne had sent for her to come to his office. She still felt as if she would like to run, and keep on running and running.

For one thing, she had too much time. Now that she had resigned her position as stewardess, she had nothing to do all day long. She did not have to get up early in the morning, since there was nothing to get up for. She did not have to hurry or worry or do a thing except try to do nothing. That, Tibby found, is the hardest thing there is to do.

Maybe if Wayne had not had to go away immediately things might have been different, but having done nothing all day long, there was nothing else to do when evening came. All Tibby could do was wait until time to go to bed, knowing she would not go to sleep when she got there. There was no more sense in going to bed and lying sleepless than in getting up.

She had done her shopping. She had bought the necessary and proper things for the week-end in Westchester, although she still hoped that she would not have to wear them to meet Wayne's family. She had worn the one dress, a very simple black affair that had cost entirely too much and so must be all right, the night she had had her last quarrel with Tommy. She had the pearl ring fixed, too. She was wearing it, although it felt exactly as she had known it would, heavy and out of place on her stubby, brown finger.

She was sitting at home like a little lady. Waiting. If there was anything worse than that, Tibby decided she had never tried it. After almost a whole long, endless, tiresome week of it she decided she simply could not go on with it another split second. She would simply have to do SOMETHING. She would run away, or scream, or have a nice quiet breakdown.

Then she thought of what she could do, the one sane thing that would help. She would go out to the field and take up the silver ship. Wayne had said she could take it up whenever she wished. True, he had said he would prefer to be with her—or at least to know she was going up in it. But he was not here to know, or to go along. Besides, that was what she wanted, what she HAD to have, to be alone, high up in the heavens, above the clouds, above all the things that belonged on the ground—all human troubles and sorrows.

During the first few days after the declaration of war, all privately owned ships had been grounded. Maybe, though, as Marg had predicted, Tibby would be able to use her silver ship for her country's civilian defense. Already such units were being discussed and organized. In that event she must keep up her hours, as required for a pilot's license. She would go out to the field, anyway, even if she did not fly today. She did not know, in deciding this, that she was helping to change that set pattern.

"Handbook of Civilian Protection" Is Timely Addition to War Literature

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A timely addition to war literature is the manual of instruction, "Handbook of Civilian Protection," prepared for laymen by the Civilian Defense Council of the College of the City of New York. It is a small, compact manual which contains a great deal of information which we hope that we will not need but which we should study "in case."

Chapter I discusses "Total War and the Civilian" and gives a good outline of the organization of civilian defense with training requirements for the following groups: messengers, drivers, auxiliary firemen, rescue squads, auxiliary police, air raid wardens, fire watchers, emergency food and housing, nurses, aides, demolition and clearance crews, road repair crews, decontamination squads and utility repair squads.

Chapter II describes "Air Raid

Conduct and Services"; chapter III, "Fire Fighting"; chapter IV, "Incendiary Bombs"; chapter V is on "Poison Gas"; chapter VI is on "First Aid"; chapter VII is on "Civilian Conservation and Salvage" and chapter VIII is on "Nutrition in the War Emergency." The book runs to only 184 pages but is very complete and well illustrated.

"We have attempted," writes the author, "to condense the large amount of available literature on civilian defense into a volume of clearly written matter designed to be understood by the man on the street. In addition to all the basic civilian protection problems covered, we have included material on a number of problems never before treated in a single volume. These include psychological conduct during air raids, the protection of records, rare books and art treasures, and complete and authoritative advice on salvage. The book is unique in that a group of highly trained specialists have succeeded in expressing highly technical information in words of one and two syllables."

Its Ten Commands

As an example of the clear and succinct rules I quote here the ten commands for air raid conduct:

- "1. If away from home, seek the nearest shelter. Get off the street."
- "2. If you are driving, park your car. Shut off all lights."
- "3. If you are at home, send all members of the family to the refuge room. Have as little window exposure as possible. Equip the home shelter with drinking water, toilet facilities, a flashlight, a portable radio, a strong table, food and reading material."

"4. It is not necessary to turn off the gas at the meter unless bombs are actually falling in your immediate vicinity."

"5. Blackout your home completely. Not a single crack of light should be seen from the outside."

"6. Keep away from windows. Flying glass splinters are dangerous."

"7. If bombs fall near by, get under a heavy table or an overturned davenport."

"8. Do not rush out of your home when the all clear signal sounds."

"9. Keep the blackout. The raiders may return."

"10. Keep calm. Keep cool. Set an example for others."

Tri-County Fair Is Called Off Because of War

Board of Directors Will Sponsor Abbreviated Affair in September

PETERSBURG, W. Va., June 5.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the Tri-County Fair association held yesterday it was decided not to hold a fair this September. The reasons for such action were the tire and gasoline situation and the uncertainty of conditions by fall, members said.

It was with a great deal of hesitancy that the board took this action for the fair has been a regular and successful event each year for twenty-three years.

To go ahead with plans meant making obligations at this time to the extent of several hundred dollars and none of this could be recovered in case later events would prevent a fair, a member stated.

The board is considering an abbreviated event to be held at the same time the fair is usually held.

The Tri-County fair consisted of Hardy, Grant and Pendleton counties.

This Pigeon Moved In with Farmer's 900 Chickens

MAYSVILLE, W. Va., June 5.—Roy C. Babb, who operates a poultry farm was slightly shocked Sunday morning when he began feeding his 900 chickens, to find a pigeon strung up to the feed pans along with his hens and begin to take its morning meal.

Pleased with the new addition to his coop, Babb did not disturb the bird for a few days, until he remembered that pigeons are now being used to carry many of the vital defense measures. Then he caught the bird and examined the bands on its legs.

Even if it isn't carrying a message, Babb said the owner might be interested in claiming it. All that the examination disclosed was a rubber band on the left leg bearing the mark, C. F. 41-N. P. C. 153 and an aluminum band on the right leg marked 60M on one side and 867 on the other.

Babb said he would be glad to return the bird to the owner if he or she would call for it.

In the Pen-Mar League, the Queen City Brewers will be seeking their fourth straight victory at Wellersburg. Since losing 10-3 to Mt. Savage, the Cumberlanders have trimmed Mt. Savage 17-1, Centerville 5-2 and Wellersburg 7-3. Wellersburg, which has lost its last five starts, defeated the Brewers 6-4 for its only triumph to date.

Centerville, setting the loop pace with four wins and one setback, lost its only game May 30 to the Brewers. The Reds will be seeking their third win over Mt. Savage, which has topped one of its last three tussles.

The Reds' two triumphs over Mt. Savage were both shutouts. The Pennsylvanians topped Manager Howard "Farmer" Northcraft's crew 2-0 in the first meeting and then routed the Savage aggregation last Sunday, 11-0.

Yankees Bolster Lead in American

Champs Defeat Second-Place Tribe 6-3 in Series Opener

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—The New York Yankees added another full game to their American League lead today, whipping the second-place Cleveland Indians, 6-3, in the opener of a five-game series and stretching their margin to nine and a half lengths.

In compiling their twenty-fourth success in their last twenty-eight games, the world champions landed on Lefty Al Smith for three runs in the first inning and routed him in the third when they sewed up the game on two more.

Lefty Gomez limited the Tribe to two hits in the first four innings and registered his second victory against two defeats, but a leg injury he received in the second frame when he was struck by a drive off Lou Boudreau's bat finally forced him to turn the game over to Marv Breuer. The box score:

Whitford Takes 1942 Conference Batting Honors

Fort Hill Slugger Finishes Campaign with High Mark of .556

Banging the pellet at a .556, little Paul Whitford, Fort Hill high's third baseman and auxiliary pitcher, paced the Tri-State Interscholastic Baseball Conference in batting the past season.

In eight games, Whitford drove out fifteen hits in twenty-seven official trips to the platter and scored eight runs. He also topped all base stealers with nine.

Jim Laffey of LaSalle, second in base stealing with five, was runner-up to Whitford in batting with a mark of .478 for twenty-three appearances. Barney McGann of LaSalle was third with .444 while Paw Paw's Mike Larkin and Earl Drenning of Fort Hill finished in a tie for fourth with .367, each getting eleven hits in thirty attempts.

Francis Deremer of Allegheny with .360, George Conway, Fort Hill, .357; Ronald Palmer, LaSalle, .346 and Jesse Sherwood, Paw Paw and Roy Evans, Hyndman, .321 apiece, rounded out the loop's ten top swatters.

LaSalle, which finished right behind the champion Fort Hill crew, dominates the extra-base hitting. Ronald Palmer and Bobby Stakem each banged out four doubles during the grind, while Ralph Esposito, McGann and Laffey were credited with two three-baggers apiece. Bill Williams and John "Gummy" Gorman of Allegheny and Charley Bush of Hyndman larruped homers.

The winning of the batting title by Whitford enabled the Sentinel athlete to wind up his scholastic career in a blaze of glory. He was honored on the All-City and All-C. V. A. L. basketball squads this year, was named the winner of the Casey Club sportsmanship award and was the recipient of the George F. Hazelwood watch for the best student athlete at Fort Hill during the school year. The list of averages follows:

Lacy's Delicats remained a half-game ahead of the West Side Merchants in the City Softball League's first half championship race yesterday when both clubs scored victories.

The Delicats, with everybody sharing in the hitting, teed off on Pitcher Gene Scaletta for thirteen hits and an 18-4 triumph over the North End Social and Athletic Club outfit on the North End Playground field.

Lacy's ten, in piling up the largest score so far this season, was given numerous walks by Scaletta. Jim Roby limited the North Enders to a half-dozen safeties. Six-run outbursts in the fifth and sixth innings marked the Delicat assault.

West Side racked up a 6-3 victory over Keegan's Collegians on the Taylor field behind the three-hit twirling of Herb Dawson. The Merchant pitcher had only one bad inning, the first, when the Collegians scored all their runs on Paul Whitford's error of Franklin See's roller, a walk, Ed Athey's double and a passed ball.

The Merchants got two runs back in their half of the first on Charlie Fisher's double and singles by George Geatz and Jack Cook and then

Vander Meer Scores Sixth Victory while Starr Registers Seventh

CINCINNATI, June 5 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds, concentrating their batting power in two innings, swept a doubleheader with the Boston Braves today, 3 to 2 and 6 to 1.

The innings were the last of the first game, when a two-run rally brought the Reds from behind to give Johnny Vander Meer his sixth victory, and the first of the nightcap when they scored six runs to start Ray Starr to his seventh triumph.

In the opener the Braves overcame a one-run Redleg lead in the sixth by counting twice on singles by Eddie Miller and Ernie Lombardi, Chester Ross's double, and a long fly. But in the ninth the Redlegs sent Al Javery to defeat by bunting three of their six hits against him.

In the nightcap the Braves were kept under control by Starr who allowed eight scattered safeties and one run in the fourth on a walk and singles by Max West and Tony Cuccinello. The scores:

Director L. E. "Red" Van Sant announced last night that all players should get in touch with their opponents as soon as possible or make arrangements to play by calling the Garlitz courts. The drawings:

Laffoon Paces Hale America Golfers In Chicago Test

CHICAGO, June 5 (AP)—Ky Laffoon, unattached Chicago professional, carved a 70-73-143 over the par 71, median course today to lead a field of seventy-two golfers in the opening rounds of the fifty-four-hole Hale American sectional qualifying trials.

The final eighteen holes will be played tomorrow with the fourteen low qualifiers entering the Hale America National open here June 18-21.

Records May Fall In AAU Track Meet

NEW YORK, June 5 (AP)—The fifty-first annual Metropolitan A. A. U. track and field championships will be held tomorrow at Travers Island, with Miller Lee MacMitchell, Three-Miler Greg Rice and Shot-putter Al Blozis regarded as possibilities to break meet records.

Most-likely mark to be smashed is the 1437.4 three-mile standard, a performance which would hardly make the barrel-chested ex-Notre Dame get up a full head of steam. MacMitchell will be aiming at 4:13.7 for the mile with Frank Dixon III, local schoolboy record holder, and Tom Quinn, former Central collegiate champion, furnishing the chief opposition.

Blozis has been putting the shot all season at better than the meet mark of fifty-four feet, four and three-fourths inches.

The well-rounded New York Athletic Club, with a contender in every event, is favored to retain the team championship.

The Whirlaway Challenge

In the midst of the tumult and shouting, plus the hollow moans, at Belmont's big Army-Navy-U.S.O.-Alasb-Shut Out combination, there is still a look to the future, just on ahead. This concerns the various challenges and counter-challenges that have involved such horses as Whirlaway, Market Wise, Ten to Ace, Alasb and possibly Shut Out.

Trainer Ben Jones informs me that he is a little more than willing to match his Whirlaway, owned by Warren Wright, against any single, double or triple challenge that may come up. Mr. Tufano, owner of Market Wise, has expressed the same opinion. Alasb and Shut Out, being three-year-olds, have certain schedules to meet that might delay any such match race until later on. You can't blame them for this.

But I find that Jones is the keenest of the lot to send Whirlaway against the pick of the field, which ever the pick might be.

Market Wise has beaten Whirlaway twice. For these two defeats Trainer Jones offers no excuses. But he still can't quite believe it. Being an old-fashioned Missouri boy, or thereabouts, he still wants to be shown in another test.

Great Possibilities

As I recall the dim facts it was the late Charles Dickens who wrote "Great Expectations." There are both great expectations and exciting possibilities now on tap in possible future match races. And what they could do for important war funds! Even on some percentage basis.

We will know about the situation after the classic Belmont Stakes. Either Alasb or Shut Out can add a rainbow touch to the picture.

Alasb is on the verge of being a great horse, of which there are only a few. Shut Out, beating Alasb, can take a long leap forward—a vigorous factor in any future program.

The main point is that with such colorful horses as Whirlaway, Market Wise, Ten to Ace, Alasb and Shut Out, the immediate future can be packed full of action.

Bonham's Chance

Another entry with a so-called "colorful future" is a New York Yankee pitcher by the name of Ernie Bonham.

In his first big league campaign, reporting late from Kansas City, Bonham won nine games and lost three. Last season, with a lame back most of the year, he won nine and lost six.

It has been a trifle different this season, with a somewhat improved spine. So far Bonham has won eight straight games with the low eight earned-run average against him in either league.

Ernie hasn't needed any flock of Yankee runs to help him through. You don't need a flock of runs when you hurl shutouts and low hit games. With this start the entry from Ione, California, and Kansas City, has a healthy chance of setting one of the great pitching records of all time.

Too often a prediction of this brand works out as a curse. It is a case that calls for hammering on wood, preferably hickory. But the bare facts are that Bonham, six feet two, displacement 212 pounds, is at least on his way.

Bill Dickey, his catcher, insists that Bonham's ability still is largely a matter of smartness and perfect control.

"Ernie has a good fork ball," Bill tells you, "pretty fair speed and a pretty fair curve ball. But his main value comes from the two things I mentioned—smartness and control. By control I mean this: He rarely gives any batter a good ball to hit. He gives each hitter only a small part of the plate, and then at some awkward spot." Bonham isn't exactly a kid. He has worked with Oakland, Akron, Birmingham, Oakland again Newark and then three years with Kansas City. He was no part of a Whirlwind in any of these shifting centers. It was not until he landed with the Yankees at the age of 27 that he began emitting most of his flame and smoke.

Improper Storage

dents persist in storing the fuel in their homes or garages.

Fire Insurance Restricts Storage
Several days ago, John B. Gontum, state insurance commissioner, called attention to the fact that most fire insurance policies prohibit, or restrict under rigid regulations, the keeping of gasoline, benzene or naphtha in residences or other buildings or their vicinity.

Gontum warned all persons that they not only endanger their property but their lives by failing to observe precautions in handling gasoline and other inflammable and explosive products.

The ordinance submitted to the mayor and council would regulate the location and type of structure of gasoline stations as well as the storage, sale and transportation of gasoline within the city limits.

Hoenicka, although he does not claim complete credit for the proposed ordinance, said that he "had something to do with it."

A rather lengthy document, one of the nine sections deals with the private storage of gasoline.

The ordinance prohibits installation of any tank for storage of gasoline for private use without first making application to the city engineer, and filing data showing the size of the proposed tank and the method of installation.

No tank, the ordinance continues, shall exceed a capacity of 1,000 gallons and must be installed underground. The tank must conform in all respects to the rules and regulations prescribed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters as to material and method of installation and operation, the ordinance declares.

Uncollected taxes as of March 31 totaled $95,617.36 as compared to $110,329.08 at the same time in 1941. The figure represents a decrease of 13.3 per cent. Uncollected water rents total $66,202.87, a decrease of 36.8 per cent and liens total $109,860.73, a decline of 17.5 per cent.

Efficiency Increased

"During the year a revision of the system of billing and collecting of water accounts was put into effect which has greatly improved the efficiency of that department," the report states. "Also it is noted that the number of accounts heretofore found to be in arrears has been greatly reduced."

A net income of $20,972.11 is reported for the water department after bond retirement of $45,622.80. The net income brings the total water surplus up to $7,651.73. Excess value of city property over money owed increased $439,130.93 up to a total of $6,393,702.31.

In the general account income for 1941-42 exceeded expenditures by $34,434.77. It is also noted that by not holding a primary in the spring election $2,810.47 was saved.

Report on Bonds

The report reveals bonds held in the sinking fund include: $356,500 United States bonds; $599,000 City of Cumberland bonds; $63,000, other Maryland municipal and county bonds, and $21,000, common carrier bonds.

The fire and police pension funds show interesting contrasts. During the year $3,953.06 was paid into the fire fund and $1,589.21 paid out to three men. The police fund had an income of $1,480.34 but $1,620 was paid out to two men, bearing out the contention of city officials that the latter plan is unworkable. The firemen contribute three per cent of salaries and the city a like amount while the police fund is based on a one per cent deduction basis.

Teachers Union Meets Monday in Frostburg To Plan Program

The Allegany County Teachers Union, AFOEL, will meet Monday night at 8 o'clock in St. Michael's hall, Frostburg. It was announced last night by Herman Ball, president.

Ball said it will be the last meeting of the union until school reconvenes in September. Principal business will be the mapping a program of political action which the teachers will follow during the summer months, he said.

The session is being held in Frostburg as a convenience for teachers of the George's Creek section, Ball added.

Methodists Seek To End Sunday Sale of Liquor

Also Oppose Advertising of Intoxicants in Report

WESTMINSTER, Md., June 5 (AP)—A three-fold resolution aimed at abolition of Sunday liquor sales, curtailment of liquor advertisements and advocating petitioning of Congress for corrective legislation was endorsed today at a Methodist layman's meeting.

The meeting was one of five held today at the third session of the Baltimore Annual Conference of the Methodist Church. Others were the Board of Missions conference session, the Preachers' Fund Society meeting, the Ministers' Meeting and a Board of Temperance conference session.

D. Stewart Patterson, conference lay leader, presided at the laymen's meeting. Reports were given by O. O. Thoman and Jesse P. Crawford, of Washington; E. E. Bradley, of Hagerstown, and George W. Crabbe, J. Harry Grace and C. C. Lammam, of Baltimore.

Reports of the Baltimore Conference Commission on world peace disclosed the Methodist church had responded loyally to the needs of our young men in the military camps.

Objectors in Camps

"We regret," the report continued, "that our great Methodist church has not made any official provision for that small minority of young men who cannot conscientiously participate in armed combat. Their presence in camps for conscientious objectors is an expression of their willingness to do 'work of national importance under civilian control.'"

The report said these men were "eager to serve their country in ways consistent with their Christian convictions," and were "ready to make any sacrifice demanded of them."

Mrs. John H. Werner, of Chevy Chase, Md., was the first woman to speak at the conference, which was attended today by about 2,000 persons.

Rural Church Needed

"It is believed a strong, vital and informed rural church with a vision can hold the answer for a perplexed and bewildered rural population," Mrs. Werner said. "We further believe that such a church is possible when the ministerial and lay leadership is of corresponding character."

Ralph E. Diffendorfer, secretary of the foreign service division, board of missions and church ex-

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Despite the formidable Japanese force engaging in the operations against Midway Island, it still is difficult to weave a logical pattern of enemy purpose in the north-central Pacific that does not smack more of information-seeking than anything else.

That was the first official interpretation given the Dutch Harbor phase and presumably represented the opinion of Admiral Chester Nimitz, the American officer primarily charged with the duty of matching wits and fighting skill with the foe in that vast and once peaceful sweep of sea. His Pacific fleet command makes him the man on the job.

May Avenge Infamy

Whatever the Japanese design in ranging so far eastward in the upper Pacific, Nimitz and the personnel of his command may have a glittering opportunity to avenge comrades who died on that "day of infamy" at Pearl Harbor last December.

Certainly, one or more strong Japanese naval task force are operating on the northern segment of the great American defense triangle in the Pacific, Alaska-Hawaii-Panama.

If that portends a Japanese attempt to crack these outer bastions of American defense, the main strength of Japan's fighting fleet also must be involved. If so, an opportunity may be looming to come to grips with it in a decisive action—the day for which American naval personnel has yearned from the admiral's bridge to the sweating black gangs which feed the furnaces.

While that is a possibility, it does not seem probable. It requires no military or naval soothsayer to decide that the first mission of the Japanese navy, as well as the American navy, still must be to protect trading cargo craft shuttling back and forth over thousands of miles of military supply lines.

Neither prime sea fighting force can yet ignore that duty to seek out the foe for a dramatic and conclusive death grapple.

Japs Hit Hard Blow

Nevertheless, what Nimitz has revealed of the Midway island clash is encouraging. A bruising blow has been struck at a Japanese sea-air force which included at least one battleship, as well as cruisers and plane carriers.

Details were not yet at hand as this was written. Nimitz's report of a battleship and carrier heavily hit by bombs, however, implies that the enemy protective forces screening carriers from which the air attack on Midway was launched were caught at sea and probably distant from the island itself. If that proves true, it means that the Midway garrison sprang to the counter attack effectively, scoring a purely defensive role.

Nimitz recently went to Midway to congratulate its defenders not only for repelling previous Japanese raids but for the skill and effective organization demonstrated. First results of the new and more powerful Japanese thrust at Midway only add to the reputation for hardihood and fighting elan that the defenders of the reef-rimmed atoll have built up.

Yet if, as some speculation on Japanese purpose has it, the Dutch harbor and Midway raids were intended as preliminaries or diversions to cover an attempt to shatter the Hawaiian central cog of the American battle position in the Pacific, the stinging new repulse for the enemy at Midway has another portent. It is a certain foretaste of the sort of reception any Japanese force will encounter in Hawaii.

Piedmont Drum And Bugle Corps Has Fine Record

Has Been Instrumental in Selling $50,000 Worth of War Bonds

Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion drum and bugle corps of Piedmont, W. Va., which paraded here Thursday night in conjunction with the War Bond sale program at the Strand theater, is piling up something of a record in War Bond sales.

The band has co-operated with a number of bond sales programs in this area, and is given credit for raising nearly $50,000 in bond sales.

Following its appearance at Oakland, $10,000 worth of bonds were sold. At Keyser it was credited with $8,000. At Romney, $9,600 were sold, and at Louisa $7,000 were raised.

The drum corps has a recital or entertainment which is presented as a part of its bond sales effort, but it was not included in the program here. Ray C. Burrows of Piedmont is post commander. John William Hanna of Westport is drum major and R. J. Brown of Westport is manager of the corps.

Well known in this area for its fine co-operation in all civic and patriotic efforts, the corps is State champion of West Virginia and makes a striking appearance wherever it goes.

"I am a Druggist—"

"To best serve the people of this community I maintain a stock of carefully selected merchandise. To be able to recommend the best product for every need, it is part of my training to know the definite standards of quality and measures that have been established by science and experience. When I order goods my selection is based on the known value of these widely recognized standards.

"Then I advertise to give people the news of my store. Because I know that nearly everybody reads a newspaper I use newspaper advertising regularly. When people pay for newspapers they read them carefully for all of the news that is interesting to them. When my ads are newsy and contain useful information I know that people will read them because they are news."

ANOTHER thing that merchants like about newspaper advertising is that they can buy it on the basis of known values that are just as definite as the measures of weight and quality that apply to merchandise which they handle.

Business men can not afford to speculate with advertising. When they buy newspaper space they can make their investments on the strength of circulation facts and figures that are verified. It is good business practice to buy advertising by such methods just as it is good business to select merchandise of known value.

This helpful information is available from reports issued by the Audit Bureau of Circulations, a cooperative organization of more than 2000 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies.

This Bureau makes an annual audit of the circulation records of all publisher members. The verified reports based on these audits tell, for instance, how many copies of a newspaper are printed, just where they go and how distributed.

These and many other audited facts found in A.B.C. reports are the advertisers' assurance that they get what they pay for.

Minute Men Are Sworn Into Service of State

Members of Six Companies Take Oath of Allegiance in Ceremonies Here and in Frostburg

Six companies of Maryland Minute Men were sworn into service of the state last night by Adjutant General Francis Petrott, commander of the Maryland State Guard. Five of these companies were inducted at the State Armory and the sixth at Frostburg, following the local ceremony. Gen. Petrott was accompanied by Lieut. Col. E. Brooke Lee of Montgomery county, commanding officer of the Seventh battalion, Maryland State Guard.

Gen. Petrott explained the purpose of the Minute Men and told 200 volunteers assembled at the Armory that after taking the oath of enlistment, they will be subject to the military laws of the state and also to the Articles of War.

Explains Organization
The purpose of the organization, "Minute Men," Gen. Petrott said, is to provide protection at home in the event of an invasion, air raid or similar emergency. When the National Guard was called into federal service over a year ago, the state was left without military protection.

Shortly thereafter the governor of Maryland ordered the formation of the Maryland State Guard. These guardsmen, trained and equipped, represent a powerful striking force which can be concentrated anywhere within the borders of the state, if needed. But if an emergency arises in one section of the state, and the guard can be mobilized and pressed into service, the general continued.

It was realized by the governor, he said, that individual communities would again be without military protection. So, the Minute Men are being formed under the old military law of the state. Every male citizen is subject to possible draft by order of the governor, Gen. Petrott added, but Gov. O'Connor preferred to form a voluntary military organization which would act as a reserve militia to the state guard, and would provide home protection if the guard leaves the community. No Minute Men will be taken from their own communities or their own neighborhoods. The five companies here will be assigned to five sections of the city, and will be trained in duties in that particular section only. They will know what property to protect and how to protect it. Their job is home defense, Gen. Petrott added.

Lee Compliments Men
Col. E. Brooke Lee, who has been active in organizing the Minute Men throughout Maryland complimented the local members for their individual patriotism and spirit of cooperation in volunteering for duty. He explained that in his own county, Montgomery, over 1,000 men have volunteered for duty as Maryland Minute Men.

"This is the constitutional and traditional method through which citizen soldiers of Maryland and America have always strengthened the defensive position of their home communities and of their state in time of trouble," Col. Lee stated. "Here in Cumberland, you have exemplified the spirit of patriotism and the spirit of free men by your voluntary response to a call to service," he said.

Lying along the Atlantic seaboard, Maryland is one of the states likely to suffer when the invader comes Col. Lee said. He explained that surveys show that enemy bombers could come into many sections of the state, particularly along the Eastern Shore or near Washington and Baltimore, drop their bombs on cities, transportation and shipping, and then go to some small

Ali Ghan Temple Will Hold Annual Ceremonial Here

500 Shriners Expected To Attend Event June 22 in Maryland Theater

All Ghan Temple, Ancient and Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine will hold its annual ceremonial on Monday, June 22, at 8 p. m. in the Maryland theater, it was announced yesterday by Leander Schadt, potentate.

Approximately 500 of the 750 Shriners holding membership in Ali Ghan Temple, which has jurisdiction over Allegany, Garrett, Washington with Frederick county as optional, are expected to attend the annual event.

A dinner will be served members of the Temple at 6 p. m. in the Masonic temple, Greene street, after which all uniformed bodies will parade, accompanied by bands and drum and bugle corps, to the theater where the colorful ceremonial and initiation of new members will be held.

Cumberland has been the scene of the Shriners ceremonial every other year since the organization was formed sixteen years ago. Last year Hagerstown played host to the Western Maryland Shriners at the annual ceremonial.

Remodeling Work At Local Church To Start Tuesday

Extensive Improvements Will Be Made at First Christian Church

The historic "Old Town Clock Church" on Bedford street, now owned by the First Christian church, will be the scene of services Sunday for the last time pending an extensive remodeling program which gets underway Tuesday morning.

The First Christian church purchased the property last fall from St. Luke's congregation after having leased the edifice for ten years. Plans for remodeling have been prepared by A. F. Wickes, Indianapolis, Ind., architect for the Brotherhood of Disciples of Christ in the United States and John S. Cook, local contractor, has been engaged for the work.

Members of the First Christian church have been active in Cumberland since 1919 but did not have a permanent home until purchase of the present church last fall. Under the leadership of Dr. Paul Henry Packard, the congregation has enjoyed a consistent growth.

Plans for modernizing the edifice include many items which will transform the church into one of the most beautiful in this section of the country, Dr. Packard said last night.

At Sunday morning's services Dr. Packard will use as his sermon theme, "Answering the Challenge." His message will be based on the words of Isaiah, "The place is too small for me; give me a place that I may dwell; enlarge the place of thy tent; stretch forth the curtains of thy habitation; spare not; lengthen thy cords and strengthen thy stakes."

One of the memorable incidents connected with the "Old Town Clock Church" was the day Henry Ward Beecher, famous orator and religious leader, stopped in Cumberland and delivered one of his noted sermons.

MINUTE MEN ARE SWORN IN—Five companies of Maryland Minute Men from Cumberland, including over 200 local citizens from all walks of life, took the oath of allegiance and enlistment last night at the state armory. Adj. Gen. Francis Petrott is shown delivering the oath to the volunteer citizen-soldiers. In the background can be seen Col. E. Brooke Lee, commander of the Seventh battalion, Maryland State Guard of Montgomery county who has been actively engaged in organizing the Minute Men throughout the state. At Col Lee's left is Capt. Thomas F. Conlon, commander of Company D, one of Cumberland's Maryland State Guard units. Members of both Company C and Company D, assisted in the induction ceremony. Following the enlistment here, Gen. Petrott, Col. Lee and Capt. Conlon went to Frostburg where members of a sixth Allegany county company were also given the oath of enlistment.

Cumberland Will Remember Pearl Harbor Sunday

Public Oath Will Be Given Ten Navy Recruits at Riverside Park

Cumberland will participate in the nation-wide observance of "Avenue Pearl Harbor" day Sunday with a public oath ceremony in Riverside park during which about ten men will be sworn into the navy at exactly 2:25 p. m., six months to the day, hour and minute after the treacherous attack on the Hawaiian outpost was made by the Japanese.

Added significance is attached to the ceremony because a Cumberland sailor lost his life in the "infamous attack" while serving on the ill-fated Arizona. Petty Officer Victor Charles Tamboloe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicolas Tamboloe, 1 Auburn avenue, was killed in the attack on December 7.

The program, to be broadcast by station WTBO, will feature a musical program by Port Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, and the Drum and Bugle Corps of Henry Hart Post No. 141, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mayor Thomas F. Conlon and members of the city council will attend and deliver brief talks. An officer of the United States Navy station at Baltimore is expected to deliver the principal address and give the oath of allegiance to the navy recruits. The program will start at 2 p. m.

Chief Petty Officers George J. Carroll and Karl Michael, of the local navy recruiting station, along with Yeoman John McLean will participate in the ceremonies.

Local Man Is Ordered To Support Wife; Given Ten Days on City Charge

Robert F. Forbeck, Jr., 410 South Cedar street, was ordered to pay his wife a portion of his bi-weekly salary when he was tried for non-support before Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menefee, judge of the Allegany county juvenile court, yesterday.

Earlier in the day, Forbeck was sentenced to ten days in the city jail for drunk and disorderly conduct after he was accused of threatening his wife. He was arrested by Officers J. W. Snyder and Robert Powell at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Forbeck's father, Robert A. Forbeck, 410 South Cedar street, had a fine of $5 suspended for interfering with an officer in the performance of his duty.

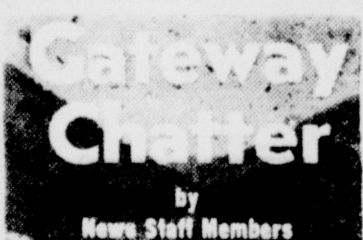

Judge Menefee said she told Forbeck, Jr., if he failed to make the payments he would be sentenced to the House of Correction for one year. In the event the sentence is paroled, she said he would be placed on probation for two years. It was his second appearance on non-support charges.

G. T. "Thad" Lindell Promoted by B. and O. To Trainmaster Here

G. T. "Thad" Lindell, who began his career with the Baltimore and Ohio railroad here about twenty years ago as a yard clerk, has been promoted to terminal trainmaster at Cumberland.

Lindell advanced to yardmaster here and later went to Brunswick as general yardmaster. A graduate of Allegany high school, Lindell formerly lived on Columbia street.

FIVE ADDITIONAL PROJECTS ARE NEEDED TO COMPLETE AIRPORT

Breweries here and elsewhere in the country might consider adopting as a theme song words "Roll out the Barrel," now that this rationing business has finally affected them. There's no need for alarm however, because it isn't the beer that's being rationed, it's the clever little caps that go on top of the bottles.

So if the gentle drinker wants beer, and the war lasts long enough, and rationing becomes more severe, it just might become necessary to "roll out the barrel." That is if barrels aren't rationed too.

Of course there's always the possibility that breweries might decide to sell their beer by some sort of curb service style, (bring your own container), much like ice and cream are dispensed at some local establishments.

Local breweries have been notified that they will be permitted to use only sixty to seventy per cent as many bottle caps as they used in the same month last year. But to serve their dealers, both local breweries are meeting this problem as best they can by urging the use of more draught beer, and by laying plans for the adoption of larger bottles.

In other words, the same bottle cap can be used on a quart size bottle, that is now used on a twelve ounce bottle. And since there are thirty-two ounces in a quart, the breweries can more than cope with the cap situation, if this larger bottle (Continued on Page 17, Col. 2)

Plans Will Be Drawn Up and Submitted to CAA Official Soon

Five additional projects will be necessary to carry out the master plan and complete work at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, it was revealed yesterday following a conference here between Edward F. Hoover, area engineer of the Works Projects Administration, and Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer.

Provision already has been made for three projects, Rizer said, and he listed the fourth to eighth projects, inclusive, as follows:

Project No. 4.—To include the No. 2 runway, plus the unfinished work on No. 1 runway.

Project No. 5.—To include the No. 4 runway.

Project No. 6.—To include the development of a certain area at the easterly end of the airport.

Project No. 7.—To include the development of the parking area, the terminal area and the hangar area.

Project No. 8.—To include the entire lighting system.

Rizer stated that these projects will be drawn up and submitted to A. H. Wessel, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, who will come to Cumberland in the near future for a conference with the city engineer.

It is Rizer's opinion that after the airport is completed it will be granted a higher classification. At the present time the local airport carries a No. 3 rating and Rizer is hopeful that it can be raised to No. 4.

In stressing the size of the Cumberland airport now under construction, the city engineer pointed out that the No. 1 runway will be 6,000 feet in length, about 300 feet less than the longest runway at the Washington, D. C., airport. (Continued on Page 17, Col. 4)

Steel Company Employees Will Return to Work

Heed Request of Government; Resume Work Monday Morning

The two-day old walkout of sixty-seven employees of the Cumberland Steel Company will end Monday morning with the men returning to work, J. E. Poulton, of Washington, D. C., grand lodge representative of the International Association of Machinists, announced last night.

Heed Government Request
Members of the shop committee of Allegany Local No. 489, I.A.M., met last night with Poulton and Ordean Rocky, commissioner of conciliation, United States Department of Labor, and agreed to return to work after Poulton read a telegraphic request by Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the United States Conciliation Service, asking the men to return to work in view of the defense work in which the plant is engaged.

Dr. Steelman said production of war materials is of primary importance to our national security and no interruption to the flow of such material should be made. Steelman asked the men to return to work pending efforts of the conciliation service to iron out difference between the company and union.

Protested New Rules
Members of the union walked out Thursday morning in protest against posting of new rules of conduct and plant policy by the company without consulting the shop committee.

Poulton said a conference will be sought with the company in an effort to come to a mutual agreement on plant rules and policy.

The shop committee said the rules posted Thursday are contrary to terms of a contract which the union and company signed last February. They said the contract called for working conditions in the plant which had existed prior to signing of the agreement.

Local Woman Receives New Year's Card Mailed in 1913

A New Year's greeting card addressed to Miss Ada L. Miller, of 9 Decatur street, and mailed nearly thirty years ago turned up yesterday morning at the local post office. The card was signed "Katy."

It is believed the card was in a crevice of a mail chute at the old post office, now occupied by the Police Department, and was found by a workman, doing some repairs in the basement, and he dropped it into a mail box. The card was sent from the city and had two cancellation stamps—one for today and the other in December, 1913.

Priest Stresses Religion In Address to Graduates

435 Railroad Men To Get Vacations At the Same Time

B. & O. Back Shops Employees Will Receive Rest from June 27 to July 6

Approximately 435 of the 520 men employed at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad back shops here will receive a nine-day vacation, starting Saturday, June 27, it was announced yesterday by Alonzo H. Bennett, shops superintendent.

An agreement recently reached between the federated shop crafts and the railroads of the nation specifies that each employee who has worked 160 days during the year 1941 shall receive a vacation of six working days with pay and in view of the fact that there are two Sundays and a holiday, July 4, during the period June 27 and July 6, the men will have their vacation advanced from six to nine days.

Shop employees work a six-day week of forty-eight hours, hence they will be paid for six days during the vacation.

Bennett said that a skeleton force of about eighty-five men will be employed at the shops during the time the others are away. Those eligible will receive their six-day vacation later.

The vacation ruling will affect men on both shifts at the back shops — 7 a. m. to 3:20 p. m., and 3:20 to 11:40 p. m.

Six-day vacations for employees of the Baltimore and Ohio round house are being staggered on the three shifts.

OPA Will Open Branch Office In Cumberland

Will Be Located in Liberty Trust Building and Will Open June 10

The Office of Price Administration will establish a branch office for the Western Maryland district, comprising five counties, in the Liberty Trust building, it was announced last evening by Leo H. McCormick, of Baltimore, state director of the OPA.

McCormick said that plans are being formulated to open the office here Wednesday, June 10, when he and the entire executive staff from Baltimore will attend the ceremony.

The branch office will be located in the five rooms formerly occupied by Trial Magistrates Court on the fifth floor and the personnel of the office staff will comprise all residents of Western Maryland, according to McCormick.

All appeals from the rationing boards will be handled through the OPA office here and members of the latter staff will assist members of the rationing boards with their problems. Heretofore rationing boards consulted the OPA office in Baltimore for information.

McCormick said that a skeleton crew will be on duty when the office is opened here next week and more employees will be added if they are needed.

IMPROPER STORAGE OF GASOLINE CREATES DEFINITE FIRE HAZARD

Ordinance To Prevent Keeping Fuel in Homes Tabled, Fire Chief Says

A definite fire hazard exists in Cumberland because of the storage of gasoline in local residences and garages, Reid C. Hoenicka, fire chief, said yesterday, revealing that on ordinance prohibiting such storage was presented to the mayor and city council in August 1941 but was tabled for a period of two weeks after its first reading.

At the end of that time, the ordinance was discussed and again was tabled for a two weeks period. Since then, it apparently has died a sudden death because it has not been revived, records at city hall disclosed. There was, however, considerable correspondence with other cities pertaining to such an ordinance but no definite action was taken.

Dangerous Practice

Hoenicka explained that storing gasoline in private homes, particularly in open containers, is very dangerous practice. One gallon of gasoline properly exposed under favorable conditions, he said, is equivalent to eight pounds of dynamite.

Education without Religion Is Incomplete, Father Urban Says; 32 Girls Receive Diplomas

A trained intelligence is a good thing, but there is no substitute for character and religious conviction, the Rev. Father Urban, O. F. M. Cap., Doctor of Canon Law, Washington, D. C., said last evening in delivering the principal address at the Golden Jubilee commencement exercises of Ursuline Academy in St. Peter and Paul church, Fayette street.

Quotes Calvin Coolidge
Father Urban said that these words of wisdom were uttered by the late Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States, at a national convention of the National Education Association.

"The Catholic church has always realized the importance of this truth and has always acted upon it," the speaker declared.

"From the direct command of Christ to teach all nations, the church has from all ages taught all nations. The church has always realized the importance of religious training, and to prove this I will bring forth three truths."

"First of all, education without religion is incomplete; secondly, it is unscientific; and thirdly, it is historically un-American."

Education Needs Religion
"Truth is one and cannot contradict itself. If it should do so it is no longer truth, and without knowledge of a first cause for the truth itself, it is incomplete. Since truths are what really matter, and they are inseparable from religion, therefore education without religion is incomplete."

"From the word 'scientia,' meaning knowledge, comes the word science. Scientific education has repeated principles so often that they are thought to be truths. They are scientific it must take in a human being as it is. Merely the training of the intellect without the training of the past has been accused unjustly of being unscientific. This has been refuted by looking back into past ages. What knowledge is to the intellect, religion is to the will."

Patriotism Is a Virtue
"Patriotism is a virtue and virtue is associated with religion. Patriotism belongs to the fourth commandment. If we look at the history of our own country, of this great nation we will find that this country of ours was born and reared under the parochial system until 100 years ago. We cannot separate love of country from the thought of Someone higher. The Bible says: 'If a man says he loves God and does not love his neighbor he is a liar.' One cannot love his country as he should without the love of God, and since patriotism is a virtue, and since it is associated with religion, education without religion is historically un-American."

In closing Father Urban expressed his pleasure to address the largest graduating class of Ursuline Academy—thirty-two seniors—and gave praise to the faculty of the school for their splendid work.

Pastor Presents Diplomas
Exercises were opened with the playing of the Processional by Prof. Peter Schumacher at the organ followed by the singing of "Ave Maria" and "Come Holy Ghost" by the church choir. Following Father Urban's address, the Rev. Boniface Weckman, O.F.M., Cap., pastor of St. Peter and Paul church, presented diplomas to members of the graduating class. Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was followed by the singing of the "Te Deum" by the congregation and the recessional by Prof. Schumacher.

Diplomas were conferred on the following:

32 Receive Diplomas

BUILDING MATERIAL AVAILABLE HERE TO CONSTRUCT 100 HOMES

Announcement Is Made following Meeting of Real Estate Board

Enough building material is available in Cumberland to construct 100 new homes and remodel 100 residences, if priorities can be obtained, it was announced after a meeting of the real estate board yesterday in the Central Y. M. C. A.

The board met with local realtors, building contractors and representatives of building supply firms, hardware stores and financial institutions to discuss local housing facilities and prepare data for G. Holmes Perkins, field representative of the National Housing Authority.

Meet Again Next Week
A second meeting is scheduled early next week when three committees named yesterday to make an inventory of building materials, investigate the available labor supply and the possibility of financing home construction or remodeling will report their findings.

Committees Are Appointed
Committees appointed follow:
Inventory of building materials—George L. Buchanan, chairman; W. M. Paw, J. E. Callahan, George K. Steiner and Edgar J. Dawson.
Labor supply—Fausten G. May, chairman; Hunter B. Helfrich and Fay Thompson.
Finance—Lynn C. Lashley, M. D. Reinhart and J. Glenn Beall.

The meeting yesterday was the outgrowth of a chamber of commerce request for the National Housing Authority to determine if Cumberland is a defense housing area so that priorities can be obtained for construction here.

Perkins visited this city Monday, surveyed the local situation and asked that additional data be prepared for him to aid in the study.
